Striking Rail Workers Ordered Back on Job

Emergency Board Formed on Fireman Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Railroad remained on use of firemen on diesel engines. Trains of three struck railroads strike. It was not clear whether the railroad's biggest yard at Roseville, Calif., in a local dispute but trains were delayed only slightly.

Spot checks early today of the areas served by the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Pacific railroads showed most pickets down with in hours of Nixon's order.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday night that union members throughout the nation would return to work as soon as possible. The department said the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry group representing more than 125 railroads, rescinded its consideration of a lockout of employees and threat to shut down the system. The UTU called the strike suddenly Tuesday after charging the lines with refusing to bargain in good faith over the cat picket line marched today at the railroad's biggest yard at Roseville, Calif., in a local dispute but trains were delayed only slightly.

Nixon's decision came on the recommendation of the National Mediation Board and Secretary of Labor James W. Hodgson after a day in which passenger and freight trains were stopped or slowed in at least 16 states.

Management spokesmen estimated 18,800 UTU members were idled with another 60,000 workers off the job as a result.

The President designated Fred M. Livingston, a federal mediator who had quit the case in June after several months of talks proved unsuccessful, to head the emergency board looking into the 12-year controversy over the need for firemen on diesel engines. The union maintains at least three men are needed in each locomotive for safety reasons. The railroads dispute this.

Moments before Nixon's action was announced, Federal Judge Barrington Parker granted the railroads' request for a temporary restraining order to stop the strike until action could be taken on the carriers' bid for a preliminary injunction. Parker set a Thursday hearing on the injunction move. After the President's step, attorneys for both sides said the hearing remained scheduled although a railroad lawyer added he would expect it to be a moot point.

Nixon now has no additional legal authority under the Railway Labor Act to avert a strike. If one is called after the cooling-off period, he would have to ask Congress to step in.

Under the presidential order, the emergency board gets 30 days to look into the dispute. There then can be no work stoppage for 30 days after the board reports to the President.

The nationwide shutdown was threatened by the industry if what the carriers called a whip-saw strike against a selected few lines was not ended.

John T. Hiltz, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, sought creation of the presidential emergency board to end what he called the potential for 'disruption to nationwide rail service which will result from this whip-saw strike....'

But UTU President Charles Luna accused the railroads of unfair bargaining practices. "The cause of the strike is clear," he said in Cleveland. "A simple failure of the railroads to bargain in good faith to settle the firemen issue with us."

Park Dedicated at Medina

In Remembrance of Thomas Armitage

BY HENRY SIMON

MEDINA — A flag flew at half staff here for 15 minutes Tuesday evening.

Then it was raised to full staff, lowered and presented to Mrs. Rodney Armitage as a park was dedicated in honor of her son Thomas, first Medina serviceman to die in the Vietnam war.

"In remembrance of Thomas Armitage we hereby dedicate this park," a speaker said.

"This park is enshrined for those with whom Thomas Armitage lived and for whom he died," a priest added.

"In a memorial of Pfc. Thomas Leon Armitage 2438951 Killed in Action, Feb. 12, 1969, Vietnam. For Love of God and Country," the plaque read.

Countryside Nearby Birds chirped in the brush across Outagamie Trunk M. The countryside never is far away in this unincorporated community about 10 miles east of Appleton.

A relative of the soldier

clenched her lips tightly, trying hard not to cry.

"I knew him since he was just a little boy," recalled Elmer Thorson, president of the Dale-Medina - Readfield Lions Club. The group arranged the ceremony and provided the plaque and stand.

Many others in the crowd knew Tom Armitage, too.

He had grown up among them, graduating from New London High School in 1967 and enlisting in the Marine Corps.

Perhaps half of this community of about 175 persons were gathered to listen to the words about the boy and man they had known.

"Thomas Armitage gave the last full measure of devotion to the principles of liberty and devotion," the Rev. Martin H. Vosbeek said.

Cars roared by on U.S. 10, slowing for the speed zone but probably not all the way down to 35 m.p.h.

Vietnam Visit Provides 'Proof' of Everyone's Views

BY DANIEL De LUCE
Associated Press Writer

In Hanoi as well as in Saigon, a visiting American can find "proof" of almost anything he wants to believe about the war.

With comparable fervor of emotion and the same assurance that time is on the speaker's side, warring leaders in North and South Vietnam have told me alike that they see signs in 1970 of ultimate victory despite the war's painful course.

In this little cockpit of Asia, after a generation of struggle and five years of major American participation in combat, contradictions still thicken the fog of war.

Last February in Hanoi, North Vietnam's Foreign Minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, gave me the Communists' interpretation of current events:

The South Vietnamese masses want independence above all else—a country from which all foreign military forces are re-treated—and they will continue their patriotic self-sacrifice until this is achieved.

Protracted War

Because the United States is arming a huge Vietnamese army under a small clique of generals in Saigon, the war will be protracted. But in the end, national liberation forces will prevail, a few generals may flee to their secret fortunes in Switzerland, and South Vietnam will arise as an independent, neutral state living in peace.

That is Hanoi's version. For the Saigon government's view, Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lan is an able spokesman, dispensing with any interpreter and speaking directly in English.

General Lam commands I Corps Tactical Zone, two infantry divisions, and five provincial governments. His forces near the 17th Parallel are South Vietnam's shield against "northern invaders."

Medals for Valor

He is five years younger than President Nguyen Van Thieu, his comrade in arms, and reached the rank of lieutenant general about five years later than Thieu. He was born within 20 miles of the Ben Hai River, the present dividing line between North and South Vietnam. He has many medals for valor.

"Why do our people continue to fight? Because they can't stand to live under Communist rule," said Lam.

"We know that if we like to be free, we must fight."

"I have 150,000 troops and thousands of territorial platoons, the Popular Forces, which are scattered through I Corps."

"Not one of my platoons has gone to the hills. Not one has deserted."

"The Communists say they will continue to fight 10 more years. We will fight longer—and win."

No Doubters

Traveling from the chemically poisoned meadows of the Demilitarized Zone to the green wonderland of the Mekong Delta, I met no doubters in the South Vietnamese officer corps.

In North Vietnam, the troops I saw of the People's Army looked smartly trained and appeared to be provided with the best of the nation's resources.

In South Vietnam, the 18 months since the Americans' policy of Vietnamization started have been good for the South Vietnam Army (ARVN).

Good fortune has deluged ARVN with military hardware from American reserves, and financed an increase of 100 per cent in regular troops, with American grants.

There's no mistaking the elan of the South Vietnamese officer corps at this time.

It is not among South Vietnamese leaders but among some American officials, in private remarks and casual hints, that a visitor finds doubts about the ultimate outcome.

Morale Problem

North Vietnamese leaders do not have the problem of morale among a host of foreign advisers, because they are on their own. The confidence and determination in North Vietnam are not displayed in an echo chamber of foreign doubts.

You ask, "Is pacification succeeding?" and again find "proof" of many answers. U.S. and ARVN briefings say it is.

Ninety per cent of South Vietnamese hamlets are now government-secure, according to official statistics.

However an American official concedes that some of the hamlets aren't in their old locations, which were in free-fire zones.

They're bunched next to cities and next to the sea.

This is why, flying 2,500 miles in helicopters and light planes, you note that much, perhaps two-thirds, of the country looks deserted. Guerrillas may roam in parts of it by night. Not even Police estimated damage at tracks from the Negro sector well over $1 million.

Police said their detectives were investigating whether trooper shots caused the wounds. State Police said they fired only warning shots.

State Police said today they would stay on in Asbury Park as long as needed. A state police spokesman said 150 troopers were on duty, some on patrol and others on standby. He said a curfew imposed Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. was listed at 6 a.m.

However black leaders said today they would ask that the numbers of state troopers be reduced immediately to ease tensions.

Most of the wounds Tuesday came during one battle in which an estimated 1,000 Negroes launched volleys of rocks, bottles and firebombs at troopers.

City officials, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting with Negro leaders to discuss demands for improvements in housing, law enforcement and employment.

The city's Negro police chief, Thomas Smith, said if calm prevailed he might recommend withdrawal of some outside policemen, one of the demands made by Negro leaders Tuesday.

Mayor Joseph Matire said "The beach front, thank goodness, hasn't been affected."

Tiger Cage Story Coverup Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A staff aide charges the select House investigating committee sent to Vietnam was "led around by the nose" and suppressed its discovery of political prisoners crammed into tiny "tiger cages."

Thomas R. Harkin said Tuesday disclosure of several hundred prisoners in the cramped lime-sprinkled pits—many unable to stand and some showing signs of beatings—was stricken from the committee's report because some members feared it would be highly embarrassing and would overshadow other findings.

Chairman G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., responded, calling Harkin a disgruntled staff member. He said the tiger cage conditions were left out of the report for fear of repercussions on American prisoners of war in Hanoi.

Military Briefing

Harkin said he was resigning because the investigation described by Montgomery as a "no briefings trip" was "comprised mainly of military briefings or State Department arranged and approved meetings."

He said a U.S. Information Agency employee assigned to the committee as a press aide worked with the State Department to arrange nearly all trips and interviews.

"I call this whole thing a whitewash of a snow job," Harkin said.

Montgomery said that charge was "ridiculous and irresponsible." The committee, he went on, picked its own investigation spots, in many cases giving less than 30 minutes notice before arriving.

Harkin said more than 200 men, crammed three to five in 86 5-by-8-foot tiger pits in one building, were unable to stand because they had been there so long. He said nearly 200 women were kept in tiger cages in another building. Each cage had a wood bucket for a toilet.

Harkin's description was generally backed by the two congressmen who visited the prison, Reps. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., and Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif.

A spokesman at the U.S. Embassy in Saigon said American authorities have known about the prison conditions but added, "Of course the control of this system rests with the ministry of interior of the Vietnamese government."

The spokesman said Vietnamese authorities "say they don't have any choice but to have people in that place."

In Saigon, informed sources said the South Vietnamese, in reaction to the criticism, has sent an investigative team to the prison site.

Request for New Fire Hose Heats Kaukauna Council

KAUKAUNA — A routine council meeting suddenly became lively Tuesday night when Chief Ted Smits requested a purchase of 1,500 feet of two-inch hose for his department at an estimated cost of $3,000. A Public Protection and Safety Committee report had been filed earlier indicating that the committee intended to investigate the requested purchase of 1,500 feet of the hose. Smits said that he originally had asked for 1,500 feet, but cut the amount to 500 feet when he learned the budget might not be able to handle the entire purchase. He said, however, that the city has received about $4,160 from the state fire insurance rating bureau since the last committee meeting, and he felt this money should be used to improve the department. After a recent warehouse fire, Smits said, only 300 feet of hose remained on the three city trucks. He said to adequately protect the city, he believed a complete change of hose was needed on all trucks. Wait a Week Ald. Lloyd Kloehn (2nd), chairman of the Public Protection and Safety Committee, said the chief had indicated that there was no dire need when he appeared last time. He moved that Smits wait a week and bring his request back before the proper committee at its next meeting.

Ald. James McDaniel (3rd) said that if the hose were needed, he felt it should be purchased without delay in the interest of the city's safety. Ald. Gerry Klarer (4th) agreed.

Kloehn then amended his motion, authorizing the chief to bring his request before the committee next week. He said the purchase could be considered a biddable item. This motion was passed.

Smits pointed out that the city had not purchased hose since 1962, and that his request was not for his own good, but for that of the city.

Ald. William Rogers (5th) said if 1,500 feet of hose were "needed last week or today," it was needed, and such a request should have been made without consideration of the budget.

Supports Quick Action Ald. Russell Dix (4th) supported McDaniel and said proposals could be secured and the hose ordered within a week after the proper committee studied the request.

Ald. George Simon (3rd) told Smits that although the fire insurance refund is added to the general fund, it makes no difference because funds for the fire department are taken from that fund.

The fire insurance refund money is used for the firemen's pension fund, City Clerk Karl E. Marzahl informed aldermen.

Ald. Robert Vondracek (1st), chairman of the Finance Committee, reported that the fire and police departments as well as other city departments have been requesting to make a thorough study of their budgets and to become aware of receipts as well as disbursements.

Street Vacation In other action the council moved to vacate a portion of Elm Street from Island Street to its termination point at the west end of the high school by calling for an Aug. 18 public hearing on the matter.

The Board of Education has requested the vacation to permit expansion of physical education areas at the high school, and the Planning Commission also has recommended it.

Also to be considered is the vacating of an alley adjacent to the high school between Oak and Elm streets and all of Hendricks Avenue south of St. Mary's Place.

The council authorized the sale of a city-owned lot adjacent to Hendricks Avenue to adjoining property owners for $1,000, and approved the direct annexation of two lots from the Town of Buchanan.

New Squad Cars A request from Police Chief William Nagel for purchase of two new squad cars was referred to the Public Protection and Safety Committee. Specifications for the vehicles were approved by the Police and Fire Commission.

City Attorney Donald Green was authorized to contact a professional firm to determine cost of conducting a city job survey. Also to be studied is a negotiator to handle wage negotiations for the city.

Aldermen voted to invite a representative of James Laird Co., a reassessment firm, and other firms interested in handling a reassessment program for the city to appear at a future meeting of the Finance Committee. Lone bid of J. P. O'Connell Insurance for coverage on various city property at a cost of $1,673 was accepted.

The Legislative Committee was instructed to adopt ordinances covering parking restrictions recommended by the police chief with the approval of the Public Protection and Safety Committee. Purchase of additional radios for the police department, through the Omnibus Crime Bill, were approved with the cost to the city $1,135 and the remaining $1,703 to be paid by the federal government.

Making Two Newspapers Costs Little Chute Man $20

A 56-year-old Little Chute man, who said he took three papers off a display stand in the Alter Avenue Shopping Center between June 30 and July 2, because he "didn't have any change," was fined $20 costs Tuesday on two of three theft charges.

Larry A. Van Nuland, 101½ W. Main St., pleaded innocent to the third count before acting Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller in County Court Branch 2. Keller set trial for 3 p.m.

"I had every intention of paying for the papers," Van Nuland said.

A district manager for the Waukeese Sentinel told the court that as he and another man watched, Van Nuland took papers from a dispensing case the June and July dates, and didn't pay for them.

Police Probing Shooting Death Near Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — The Wausau Police Department is investigating the death of a 34-year-old Wausau man who apparently shot himself through the head a wayside two miles east of Wausau Tuesday evening. Roger Godeck, 34, district manager of Mutual Trust Insurance Co., was discovered slumped over a wayside picnic table off State 29 about 7:30 a.m. According to the Shawano county sheriff's Department, Godeck's wound appeared self-inflicted.

He was rushed by Schmidt ambulance service to St. Mary's hospital in Wausau, where he died at 8:30 p.m. Outagamie County Coroner William O'Connor said the investigation is needed because "foul play is suspected." Godeck was found with the gun in his right hand, but the wound was through his left temple. He had a sales slip in his pocket for the caliber pistol, but his name wasn't on the slip.

Kiwanis Seek Nominations for Citizen Award

WITTENBERG — The Kiwanis club committee in charge of selecting an outstanding citizen to be honored at a special July reunion early in August is seeking names of applicants for the award. Club members have received nomination forms to be filled out and returned to the committee for study. Primary consideration is outstanding service to the community during the past year.

Some areas of community service suggested include civic affairs, education, political, church, business and sports. Other matters to be considered include community service in relation to the needs of the community, community service formed on a voluntary basis which little or no compensation was received, and general citizenship commensurate with award. The recipient would have to be a legal resident of the village.

Oshkosh Man Must Spend First of Three Years in County Jail

Three year's probation with the State Department of Health and Social Services was ordered Tuesday for Brian Zink, 24, Oshkosh, convicted of issuing forged checks.

Outagamie County acting Judge Gustave J. Keller stayed a three-year prison term at Waupun, but ordered that Zink spend the first year of the probation period in the county jail under the Huber Law.

Zink issued four checks forged by another Oshkosh man, James L. Veach, 31, at four businesses in the Town of Horton June 2 and 4. Eleven additional counts of issuing checks forged by Veach were consolidated during Zink's appearance in County Court Branch 2 Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty to the offenses which occurred in Wittenberg and Fond du Lac counties between May 26 and June 8. The checks had been cashed at service stations, food stores and taverns in Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, and a route 1, Neenah business place.

Two in Appleton Two other checks cashed in Appleton June 2 were included in the information against Zink Tuesday, but Assistant Dist. Atty. R. Thomas Cane waived the filing of criminal charges.

As conditions of his probation, Keller stipulated that Zink make one-half the restitution owed the businesses for the checks. The 17 checks totaled $470.70. Zink must also pay court costs and reimburse the county for an appointed attorney.

Meanwhile, Veach is being held in the county jail under $2,500 bond pending his sentencing in Circuit Court on the forgery counts. Veach pleaded guilty to the four original felony counts in Circuit Court June 25. Judge Andrew W. Parnell withheld disposition in the case at that time, and set no date for sentencing.

Census Figures Questioned by Grand Chute

Board Feels Growth In Town Was More Than 1970 Poll Lists

BY BILL LEACH Post-Crescent Staff Writer

GRAND CHUTE — Like many other Fox Valley communities, this town is dissatisfied with preliminary census reports.

The results, previously printed in The Post-Crescent, show that the town grew only by approximately 230 persons, to 5,264, in the last 10 years.

Town officials questioned those early figures in a letter to the Minneapolis office of the nationwide count. Last week, verification of that figure came by phone, and Town Board members still are questioning the statistics.

"We're so concerned, we're thinking about having a recount," Ed Ziegler, town supervisor, said Tuesday night at the town meeting.

Town Attorney Don Herrling said he believed the figures were "not accurate" and that "we've grown more" since the 1960 census.

Leslie Woldt, town clerk estimated that approximately 600 residential building permits had been issued between 1960 and 1970. He admitted, however, that the town had lost approximately 150 persons through annexations to other communities over the same 10-year period.

"If every other house in the town stood empty, then I probably could agree with the census," Woldt said, "but we don't have any vacant homes."

Need Proof
"It doesn't seem like the census can be correct," he added. "But, how can you say it's wrong if you don't have proof?"

Board members decided that the figures should be investigated to determine their accuracy and that the manner in which the figures were arrived at should be explained by the census bureau "so we know who was counted and who wasn't."

A discussion earlier in the day with a former town clerk regarding a new census was mentioned. Wayne Rowan Sr., reportedly would be willing to conduct the census on his own.

In other action, the board resolved to allow dumping at the town dump only from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays beginning Aug. 1.

The dump will be locked at all other times.

The resolution was called for after it was pointed out by Arthur Paul, dump caretaker.

Menasha Mayor Protests DNR Deadline to be Fought

MENASHA — Mayor James Adams intends to protest a Sept. 15 deadline for Fox Valley communities to adopt a floodplain zoning ordinance.

"I'll go all the way to the governor, if necessary," he said today.

The mayor said he was not against floodplain zoning efforts to get Valley communities to adopt ordinances.

"But all of a sudden, they (the State Department of Natural Resources) are trying to blame the local municipalities for their inaction," he said.

"The inference is that the local communities are at fault, but it looks to me like it's a lack of communication between the DNR and the

Menominee Group Opposes Sale of Lake Land to Whites

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KESHENA — A group of Menominee Indians opposed to the sale of their lake land to white cottage dwellers plan to initiate a movement Saturday to alter the political structure of the organization controlling their land.

The group — formed about 18 months ago and called the Menominee Action Group — is made up of about 75 dissident shareholders in Menominee Enterprises, Inc., the organization which took over control of reservation lands about 10 years ago.

About two years ago, Enterprises contracted with N. E. Isaacson & Associates, Inc., Reedsburg, to develop and sell over 2,000 lots on essentially three major lakes, including Legend Lake. Nearly half the lots, about $6 million in value, have been sold.

The opposition group claims that it is growing, although it's still a minority, and it expects to bring many supporters from Milwaukee and Chicago — former Menominees — to Keshena this weekend to protest the sales and to cast proxy votes for the change in Enterprises political structure.

About 50 Menominees picketed the Legend Lake area Saturday and Sunday, and as a result, seven were served with summons on a complaint of disorderly conduct signed by George Knot, chairman of the Menominee Common Stock and Voting Trust, the governing body of Menominee Enterprises.

Experts to Review County Dump Sites

Subcommittee on Waste Disposal

Five technicians were named Tuesday to review existing solid waste disposal sites as Outagamie County continued its search into whether it should have a landfill operation, could provide a uniformity of operation, Michaels said the county-level programs.

The subcommittee was set up by the 17-member ad hoc committee authorized by the County Board to probe the question. The subcommittee was formed after technicians presented reports of planning programs in solid waste disposal.

Named to the group were Arno Haering, director of Regional Planning, and Larry Michaels, public works director, both of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG); Gerald Paul, chief hydrologist, and Joel Grunwaldt, solid waste disposal planner, both of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, and Robert Miller, director of public works at Appleton.

Evaluation Time
Haering said the five had met earlier in the day and agreed they would request that they be formed as a subcommittee to make the investigation. He noted they would need at least 30 days to evaluate existing sites, check zoning, determine the life of existing sites and to find out the favorable and unfavorable characteristics.

"By examining existing sites, we can evaluate the real problems (of solid waste disposal) in the county," said Grunwaldt, who expects to begin a study in Outagamie after completing one in Winnebago.

Some committeemen at first questioned whether this would duplicate COG's study. Haering said COG didn't touch the rural areas of the county.

Supv. Harold Miller, Town of Grand Chute, said he agreed on the subcommittee idea. "There is a lack of information and knowledge," he said.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, suggested the subcommittee also find out the attitude of the municipalities toward the county setting up one or more disposal sites.

Support County Plan
Speaking for themselves, Haering and Robert Miller said they would support the county taking over the disposal program.

The county contemplation comes during a time when private operators and representatives of Fox Cities communities are seeking to find sites and arrange joint agreements for sanitary landfill disposal; the alternative most accepted to open burning which is now outlawed.

Miller called the county the "best vehicle" to overcome the major problem, which is the lack of information and knowledge.

Anderson said he did not want to make an appointment until the county had a study made.

Anderson also informed the council that the city had been granted an extension to Sept. 15 for adoption of a flood plain ordinance as required by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The ordinance was to have been adopted by Jan. 1, but lack of information from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers prevented the Fox Valley Council of Governments, which is drafting the ordinance, from making the deadline.

Anderson said the extension should give the city adequate time to adopt such an ordinance.

The Public Protection and Safety Committee was asked to study the office of civil defense director to determine whether the post vacated by the resignation of Michael Gerharz should be abandoned or a new appointment made.

Ald. Lloyd Kloebe (2nd), chairman of the committee, pointed out that city statutes require that the mayor appoint a civil defense director subject to approval of the council. He felt it was up to the personnel committee to decide the future of the position.

Anderson said he did not want to make an appointment until the county had a study made.

Scanlan Jewelry Hit By $2,000 Burglary

Winnebago County authorities are investigating the overnight theft of $2,000 worth of rings and watches from the V. Scanlan Jewelry Store in the Valley Fair Shopping Center.

Burglars scooped nine watches, six diamond rings and two gem stones from two display windows which they smashed by hurling a large rock and a concrete building block.

They apparently didn't enter the store. Authorities were informed of the break-in about 7:45 a.m. by owner Vince Scanlan. Scanlan said it would cost $500 to repair the shattered eight by eight foot windows.

The mall of the shopping center is never locked, according to a county policeman.

Iola Site 'Like a Battlefield' Froehlich, Byers Condemn Rock Festivals

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Two Republican lawmakers, including the powerful Speaker of the State Assembly, have joined the growing group of politicians calling for controls on rock festivals in the wake of the controversial Iola gathering 10 days ago.

As the rock festival issue shows signs of becoming a popular political topic in this election year, Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich of Appleton ordered his Assembly state affairs committee to immediately start an investigation of the events.

"Law in Own Hands"
Object of the study should be possible laws which can be written in the 1971 session to limit and control rock festivals in the future, he said.

And State Rep. Francis Byers of Marion, in whose district the Iola festival took place, said that residents of that community could "take the law in their own hands" if attempts are made to have another rock festival there.

The attacks came on the same day that Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren, also a Republican, was seeking re-election. Warren is drafting model ordinances and zoning codes to limit and control such events.

Froehlich said activities at the festivals are "an affront to the public morals, an impeding of effective law enforcement, and a danger to the public in general."

He ordered State Rep. Bernard Lewison, R-Viroqua, head of the State Affairs Committee, to begin the investigation to determine what legal steps can be taken to regulate the festivals.

The committee should look into areas of health and public safety hazards, the sale and distribution of illicit drugs and narcotics and the entire area of law enforcement, including responsibilities of state and local lawmen, Froehlich said.

The attorney general should be asked for help in drafting proposed legislation for the 1971 session to limit and control such festivals, the speaker said.

Byers said that the recent three-day Iola event was a "sex, alcohol and drug festival" and that the community will not tolerate another such event.

Attempts to hold another festival in Iola could lead to residents "taking the law into their own hands," he warned in a statement issued by the GOP's Assembly publicity office.

Byers invited "all law-abiding, self-respecting citizens" to visit Iola to see what remains after the festival.

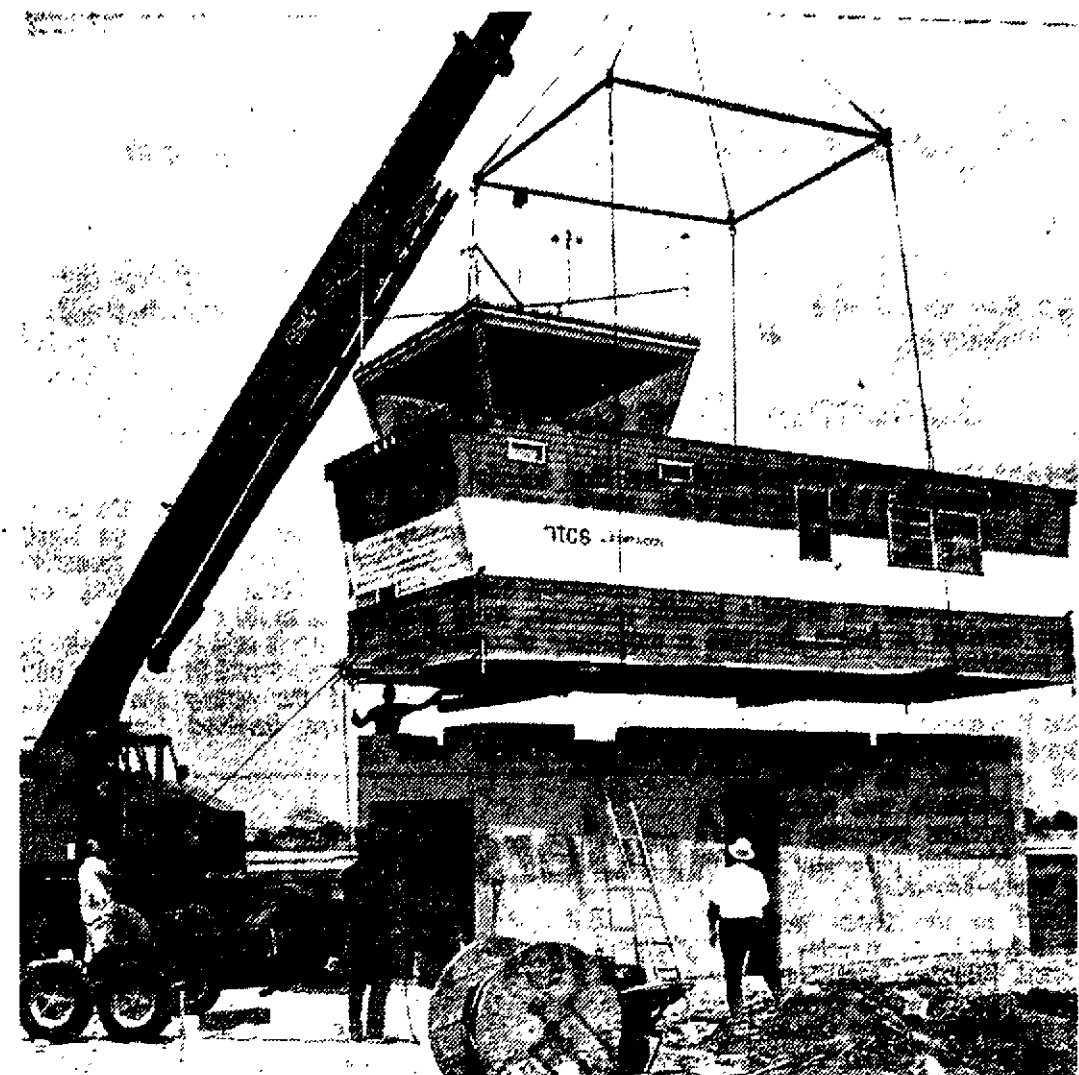

"Like Battlefield"
"So-called peace loving environmentalists," said Byers, "left the town looking like a World War II battlefield."

The festival, he said, was an "illegal, illicit and immoral promotional scheme designed only to corrupt our young people. As rumors of another festival crop up, they are being chased down and preventive action is taken," said Byers.

"Anyone who condones or is apathetic to these orgies of noise, violence and immoral behavior should be unceremoniously removed from their positions of responsibility and influence. Furthermore, promoters of such events should be held accountable to the law," Byers said.

The action group also has sent a petition to Congress through

Legal Point Causes Delay In Neenah School Contracts

NEENAH — Although the board vice-president, suggested board would fall in the categorical control body and school that the fiscal control body board agree that awarding four major contracts to the recently-bid Arm-keep under the $4.5 million and strong Senior High School would then write change orders to the be most, the two are at odds time of about $425,000 to handle economical now, whether it can the school furnishings. and done legally.

The bids came in well over Ellis, cited state law, argued that it would be illegal to negotiate for change orders after the bids had been opened. "The only way you can the school board wants to award do it is to redraw the specifications and then write change orders during construction to bring the tax-payers' cost within the $4.5 million mark.

Meeting Tuesday night, the two boards ran head-on into the legality of negotiating for changes after the contracts had been let. After two hours of heated discussion, it was agreed to hold off for a week until more legal advice would be available.

Mayor Roman V. Hauser, citing a legal opinion by City Atty. Duane Philis, promised that he would not sign the contracts following the procedure advocated by the school board. "The fact is, you need both mine and the city attorney's signature on those contracts, and you're not going to get them," the mayor pledged.

Menasha Attorney Philis is on vacation until early August and has appointed Richard Steffens, Menasha city attorney, to act on his behalf until he returns. Steffens could not be at the Tuesday meeting because of the Menasha council meeting the same night.

The fiscal control body decided to hold off for a week until Steffens could be called in and lend the legal interpretation to the school board proposal.

The school board, saying that its approach was legal, said the signed contracts would not exceed the $4.5 million amount.

Neenah Sells Bonds At Favorable Rate

NEENAH — The $6.9 million Mayor Roman V. Hauser, is bond issue which was sold by almost twice that of the last city Tuesday will mean bond issue sold by the city. Six Syndicates

A record number of 68 financial houses were included in six syndicates which submitted bids on the bond issue.

The debt retirement will mean a built-in cost of between $2 and $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to the city's tax rate for the next 18 years.

Menasha Aldermen Decide Against Census

MENASHA — Several aldermen spoke in favor of the will try. "idea" of a new Menasha census, but not enough of them the firm that collects data for went along with Mayor James the city directory to help in Adams' idea that the aldermen counting the number of city help conduct the census themselves.

In a 5-3 vote Tuesday, the common council put an end to the mayor's effort to challenge the U. S. Census Bureau figures which said the city had grown by only 500 between 1960 and 1970.

'Some Merit'

Before the vote, First Ward Ald. Andrew "Bud" DeLeeuw said, "I think there's some merit," but then he admitted that an upcoming election and other duties made it impossible for him to help in the survey.

Second Ward Ald. Walter Remmel agreed that it has some merit, "but urged the mayor to 'go outside the council chambers' for the volunteer help to carry out the door-to-door canvass of all city residents.

"The issue will die if the city relied on volunteer help outside of the council chambers Adams admitted.

LWV Help

"Have you approached the League of Women Voters?" Sixth Ward Ald. Robert Winkski asked.

Paper Industry Museum on Bergstrom Fill?

NEENAH — A museum of the recreational purposes. Miller's plan, which was working models of paper machines plus information on the "paper capital of the world" is designed around an activity approach.

This is part of an idea the park and recreation commission has fostered for the Bergstrom fill area on the south end of Little Lake Butte des Morts.

William Miller, park and recreation superintendent, Tuesday outlined to the plan commission what his department has been planning for the 30 acres of real estate which is being created by dumping in the residue from the Bergstrom Paper Company's operation.

Baseball Diamonds

In addition to the museum, Miller suggested three ball diamonds, a trio of model airplane flying circles and a small craft docking and launching area.

"We have to be careful," Miller pointed out, "because we're not sure how stable the fill material will be."

The fill-in operation has been going on since 1951 when the state granted Neenah authority to reclaim the emerged land at the south end of the little lake.

30-Acre Park

When completed, there will be about 2,400 feet of shoreline plus the 30-acre park which, from the outset nearly 20 years ago, has been earmarked for recreational purposes.

According to Wayne Bryan, public works director, it could be another 50 years before the filing operation is completed. The plan is to lift the land area about eight feet above the normal water line. Bryan said the fill material is "light and flakey" but could be used for other suggestions on what might be developed in the park area.

"What we would like to see is a coordinated effort with the Bergstrom Paper Company for a joint parking area. Through a joint use, we should be able to get maximum use from the land," Miller suggested.

Lake Dredgings

Robert Thom, plan commission member, suggested dredging the lake near the park and use the dredgings as a stabilizing material for the top soil on the park.

The south end of the lake is very shallow and because of the railroad bridge boat use must be restricted to small craft.

According to Miller, the shallowness of the lake voids any plan to construct a marina type facility. "Instead, we should have a parking area for cars with boat trailers and a launch area, but anything beyond that would not be practical," he said.

Miller's plan called for the three ball diamonds, one regulation baseball, and two softball infields at the east end of the park near the city access. The museum was planned for the center of the park, with the model airplane circles at the west end.

Flying Circles

"We think this would be an ideal place for the flying circles because the adjacent area is not residential," Miller said.

Bryan suggested switching the museum to a spot nearer the access road to get closer to the utility hookups.

Miller's plan was accepted as a blueprint for future use of the reclaimed land area.

Referendum Sought Petitions Back Elected Executive

OSHKOSH — Citizens interested in seeing an elected executive at the helm of Winnebago county government are getting organized into petition-passing committees and expect to be ringing doorbells soon.

The petition will aim to put a referendum on the question in this fall's election. Some 5,129 signatures are needed, 15 per cent of those voting in the last gubernatorial election.

A week ago WORC (Winnebago Organization Restructuring Committee) voted in favor of the elected executive. Since then other civic groups have lined up in support of WORC.

Chamber Support

Louis Michlin, executive secretary of the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "The majority of our executive committee has approved the position and will be lending moral support to WORC." Michlin said the Oshkosh chamber will also assist in circulating petitions.

"I don't think we're going to have any problem as far as getting support for the change. It is an improvement in the operation of our government," he said.

LWV Help

The 104 members of the Neenah - Menasha League of Women Voters will also be circulating the petitions, according to Mrs. Thomas Widener, league vice president.

"Our position is to be along with the majority vote of WORC because we're for strengthening county government," she said.

The Oshkosh LWV will be working for the change too. Mrs. Dorothy Schwartz, president, said today that a clear majority of her board of directors voted to support the thrust for an elected executive. Previously the board backed a leadership change, but had not specifically been for an elected head.

NM Chamber

The Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce is on record favoring the executive position. John Galloway, president, said he hoped to have teams collecting signatures by the end of next week.

Orrin King, chairman of the county board and a member of a special committee studying new leadership for the board, said that the matter would be discussed at a meeting of the coordinating committee next Tuesday.

"I have my doubts that there will be a recommendation for the board."

Some Executive

"I'm sure in my own mind that we need an executive of some type. If we're not big enough to do our own work, let somebody else do it," the supervisor said.

School Board Interviews 6 Architects

Plans Begin for New North-Central Elementary Building

Appleton Board of Education members listened for hours Monday night as six architectural firms discussed their philosophies and operations in their efforts to be selected to design a new north-central elementary school, scheduled for opening in September, 1972.

The board took no action, but indicated it may select one within two weeks. It has started the interviewing process early so that the 1,000-student school can be opened in time for the 1972 fall term.

The schedule is to have plans completed early next year so construction can start as soon as possible. The board began seeking architects recently after the city came to terms with Percy Menning, Appleton, to purchase the 5.23 acre parcel, next to Einstein Junior High, a piece of land the city has been seeking for five years.

The architectural firms making presentations were Schutte-Mochon, Inc., Sauter Seaborne Architects, Ltd., and George G. Narovec and Associates, Inc., all of Appleton, and Shattuck,

Kaukauna's Sewers Are Being Televised

KAUKAUNA — Crews of the American Pipe Services Co., Minneapolis, currently are in the process of televising sanitary sewers in the city to permit City Engineer Robert Natrop and city officials to set up a program for sewer replacement projects.

This is the second year the firm has been working for the city. Cost of this year's work will be $10,000. The sewer pipes are televised with a five-inch diameter camera pulled by a steel cable and winch. The camera trails its own coaxial cable behind it, connected to the receiver for viewing.

A television screen in a van monitors the picture. As a crack or leak appears, the camera stops and the scene is recorded by a videotape recorder and a

The new school is expected to take the overload off several elementary schools, especially those in the northern part of the district.

Music Students From Kaukauna at Clinic

KAUKAUNA — Six high school music students are participating in a summer music clinic at the University of Wisconsin. Their attendance was made possible through scholarships provided by the Band Parents Club.

Attending the clinic are Connie Kilsdonk, Celeste Meyerhofer, Cheryl Marsceau, Leda Pynenberg, Mary Lee Scherer, and Cindy Schmidt.

- New Streets
- New Colors

A great number of changes have taken place since the last Post-Crescent Fox Cities maps were prepared in 1966. Many new streets, freeway extensions and interchanges have been installed. Town areas have grown, city areas extended. These changes are all reflected in the new, 1970 Fox Cities maps just now available. While it is almost impossible for city planners and engineers, from whom most of the information is obtained, to be 100% accurate, the 1970 maps are as complete as it is possible to make them. Stop by the Post-Crescent offices in Appleton, Neenah or Oshkosh and, for just one dollar, get your new map. You may use the handy order form below for mailing purposes if you desire.

that refuse from other communities was found in the town dump and that commercial haulers had been dumping at the facility "at any time they want."

"We can't afford to take all this other junk," Ira Livingston, town board chairman, said.

The resolution applies to both commercial and town resident haulers and calls for violators of the new rule to have their dumping privileges revoked.

A letter will be sent to other municipalities, haulers and residents notifying them of the new dump regulations.

License Requested
Ewald Rehfeldt Jr., 1013 S. Christine, appeared to discuss his request for a class B combination license for the Club 96 Rehfeldt ran the club two years ago as a teen bar. His request at that time for renewal of his license was denied by the town board.

Rehfeldt owns the fixtures in the building, which has been vacant since early January after the last operator left, and wants to resume business there again.

The board agreed to study his request after certain improvements in the sanitation system at the club have been made.

The board authorized the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. to install six 175-watt street lights on S. Westland Drive.

The board of review, consisting of town board members and two citizen appointees, Rowan and Merlin Plamann, will meet at 8 a.m. Monday at the town hall to elect officers. The board then will adjourn to a later date to conduct its business.

Three new park commissioners were appointed to fill unexpired terms of Bert Weinberg, Mrs. Marion Haag and Erik Madisen, Jr. They are, respectively, Russell Bowers, Mrs. Faye Bonnin and James Heenan.

Board members agreed more information was needed on the Fox Valley Council of Governments plan for a regional sewage district before the town issued its opinion on the plan.

Knote and other officers of Menominee Enterprises have argued that it's a matter of economics. The Menominees are in financial straits and the lake project produces capital, under the 50-50 arrangement with Isaacson, and a much-needed tax base.

Isaacson reported that lots sold to date represent taxable valuation after cottages are built of $12 million to $15 million. Menominee Enterprises had carried about 93 percent of the tax load.

"We believe it's important to build a tax base, and we have exceeded all expectations," Isaacson said. "It's their only out; it's the best way."

Woman on Probation For Drug Possession

STEVENS POINT — Laura Schoener, Justice, Ill., was placed on one year's probation in Portage County Monday for possession of marijuana.

She was one of 26 persons arrested after a crowd of youths drove cyclists from the site of the Iola rock festival the morning of June 28, after a night of violence.

No definite dates have been set for trials of others in the group.

Local Planning Agencies Receive $118,000 in Funds

The two Appleton-based regional planning agencies will receive about 40 percent of the federal planning assistance funds earmarked for Wisconsin. It has been announced.

Charles Hill Sr., secretary of the State Department of Local Affairs and Development, the administrator of the funds, said that the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission will five-year program for park development, and funds for such purposes may be available through the federal government. In an effort to solve street flooding problems on W Third Street near the new West Side Elementary School, the board voted to advertise for bids for the installation of approximately 200 feet of storm sewer in the area. Specifications for the sewer and catch basin are available from the clerk. Bids must be submitted by 7 p.m. July 20. Safety Award Village President Alvin Fulcer and Police Chief Donald Schmeck were authorized to attend an American Automobile Association awards luncheon at Madison July 10 at which time the village will be cited for a 15-year pedestrian safety record. Purchase of a new, $1,350 riding mower from Horst Engineering, Green Bay, was authorized. Word was received from the State Fire Insurance agency that the village will receive a $926.25 fire insurance premium refund. Wilfred Vandenberg was reappointed to a three-year term on the board of appeals and Roger Oudenhoven was named to the volunteer fire department after completing his probationary period.

receive over $118,000 of the $296,000 allotted to the state under the federal "701" planning program. Northeastern is getting $63,200 and COG $55,000. This money pays up to two-thirds of planning activities' costs and the other third must be provided by the local governmental units. The grant is made annually. Eleven other planning agencies and the department will share in the remaining 60 percent of the funds.

Other authors whose works will be studied include Dante, Thoreau, Plato, Sophocles, John Locke and Adam Smith. Persons college-age and above may participate in the discussion groups, Klinkert said. Citizens Petition

Iola Strives to Prevent Fest

IOLA — Petitions are being circulated in the Town of Iola giving citizens the proper and legal method of expressing their disapproval of the People's Fair held there 10 days ago and to prevent another announced for Aug. 14, 15 and 16.

These are being circulated by Fred Green and distributed by milk haulers to residents. They are being called in the week of July 13.

Woman Pays Fine for Fest

PORTAGE (AP) — The 79-year-old woman on whose farm a rock festival was held in April was fined $300 Tuesday in Columbia County Court for violation of zoning ordinances.

Mrs. Irene York earlier had pleaded innocent but changed her plea Tuesday to no contest. Judge John McGalloway Jr. of Fond du Lac heard the case after Mrs. York filed a writ of prejudice against Columbia County Judge Daniel C. O'Connor.

Mrs. York was accused of permitting camping in an area not zoned for camping, permitting the erection of a bandstand without a building permit, allowing the parking of vehicles in an agricultural area, and permitting the installation of portable toilets in violation of the sanitary code.

Man Punctures Hip in Construction Work

A 24-year-old route 1, Valders man is in satisfactory condition today at Appleton Memorial Hospital recovering from a puncture wound to the left hip suffered in an accident Tuesday afternoon at the construction site of the new Behm Motors building on W. College Avenue. Outagamie County investigators said that Dennis Alfson was climbing a ladder when it slipped, and he fell on a reinforcing rod.

Great Books Discussion Groups to be Organized

An organizational meeting for Great Books Discussion Groups will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Kitchin by Klinkert, 337 W. Wisconsin Ave.

The nonprofit groups, sponsored by the Great Books Foundation at the University of Chicago, were organized to bring people together to read and discuss great books of the past, according to James Klinkert, a local coordinator. Books must have been written at least 50 years ago, he added.

The group will discuss Plutarch's "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" Thursday.

Other authors whose works will be studied include Dante, Thoreau, Plato, Sophocles, John Locke and Adam Smith.

Persons college-age and above may participate in the discussion groups, Klinkert said. A college education is not needed, however.

There are no dues, he said, but it is advisable to purchase a set of 8 paperback books for page referrals during the discussions. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Janet Faulkner, 711 Canterbury Drive.

2 Menasha Men Charged

Pair Is Accused Of Gasoline Theft In Parking Lot

Two Menasha men charged with beating a man from whose car they are accused of stealing gasoline appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday. Richard Thurber, 28, 418 Sixth St., pleaded innocent to charges of theft and battery and will stand trial Aug. 13. He was jailed under a $500 bond.

Vince Dalton, 28, 342 Water St., was jailed for 30 days after he pleaded guilty to the gasoline theft count. Acting Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the battery case proceedings to July 14 to allow Dalton time to consult an attorney. He did not enter a plea to that count.

Appleton police reported that Edgar H. Borsche, an employee of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., surprised Thurber and Dalton early the morning of June 25 as they were siphoning gasoline from his car parked in the power company lot on S. Oneida Street.

He reportedly was kicked and struck in the face and an attempt was made to throw him over a railing and into the Fox River. Police said Borsche suffered head and leg injuries.

Dennis D. Haas, 26, 812 John St., Menasha, suffered cuts and a bump to the forehead late Tuesday morning when the auto he was driving was hit by another car at Bennett and Lorain streets. Randall J. Arft, 16, 1304 S. Mason St., told Appleton police he was traveling south on Bennett when he swerved into the side of the Haas car because of a bike rider which entered his lane. Haas was eastbound on Lorain at the time of the accident.

Robert Reinke, 1423 W. Lawrence St., drove his 1960 auto to the No. 3 fire station Tuesday night after a short in an a dimmer switch ignited floor padding. The fire was out when he arrived.

An amended charge of driving while intoxicated cost Wayne F. Balke, 31, route 5, Appleton, $20 and costs this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. The count was amended to inattentive driving on a motion by the city attorney's office. Balke, who was not present this morning, pleaded guilty to the amended charge through an attorney. Appleton police brought the count Jan. 11 at College and Badger avenues.

KAUKAUNA — An accident late Tuesday afternoon about two miles north of here on Outagamie County Trunk J.J. brought minor injuries for an 18-year-old motorcycle driver. County traffic officers said that Robert A. Hendriks, route 5, Appleton, was attempting a U turn to travel west on J.J. when struck by Frances Weyenberg, 57, 2500 French Road, Appleton, also traveling west on the county highway. Mrs. Weyenberg told authorities she swerved to avoid the cyclist.

KIMBERLY — A pick-up truck reported stolen by Louis Uelmen, 950 Duchac St., Antigo, from in front of a tavern on W. Kimberly Avenue about 11 p.m. Monday was found by Little Chute police in a cemetery in that village early Tuesday morning. Uelmen told police that he was in the tavern for about 10 minutes and when he returned found the truck gone. The keys were left on the floor of the vehicle.

Melvin Biese, 204 N. Wilson St., reported a tire on his car slashed while he was walking with his children in Sunset Point Park Monday night.

N. Vietnamese Force Caught At Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopters and ground troops caught a North Vietnamese force near the old Marine combat base at Khe Sanh today and in a seven-hour battle cut the enemy to pieces, U.S. officials reported.

The officials said up to 126 enemy were killed in the action about three miles from Laos in South Vietnam's northwest corner.

U.S. losses were put at two men killed and six wounded.

Khe Sanh was the site of a 77-day enemy siege early in 1968. It became one of the war's most famous battles. The base was abandoned by the Leathernecks in June of 1968.

The new fight came after U.S. helicopter crewmen spotted the enemy force in the area. Officials said the enemy's strength was estimated at 150-250 men.

A reaction force of paratroopers also was air lifted into the area by helicopter and clashed with the enemy.

It was the second major battle in northernmost 1st Corps within the past week. The other was a two-day fight between South Vietnam's 1st Division and North Vietnamese troops on sand flats southeast of Quang Tri, some 40 miles to the east of Khe Sanh. In that battle, the government troops claimed 146 of the enemy killed.

Word of the new fighting came as government spokesmen in Saigon disclosed that three battalions of civilian irregulars had been withdrawn from Cambodia, and the rest of South Vietnam's Mekong Delta-based task force embarked on a new operation in Cambodia.

18,000 in Cambodia
The pullout of three battalions of the ethnic Cambodians recruited in the Mekong Delta left a total of 18,000 South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia.

Applying unusual security to the new operation, spokesmen refused to say where it was located.

Senate Retains Space Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — After onerous and Space Administration said, "this is the place to do it." The Senate followed its rejection of the Proxmire vote by adding $400 million to funds for urban renewal grants and $300 million for sewerage and water treatment facilities.

The latter proposal, opposed by many of the senators who fought to maintain space spending levels, was followed by a surprise space cut proposal by Sen. William Fulbright who was stopped from a bid to strip $300 million from the space program only by last-minute vote switch.

In close votes, the Senate refused to trim any funds from the budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

State Youths on Tour

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Groups of young people from Wauwatosa, Waukesha, Richland Center, Marshfield and Fond du Lac were among some 3,500 youths stuck in Rome Tuesday.

Five students from Richland Center High School were stranded in Cologne; nine students and a nun from Marshfield were in Rome and an undetermined number of students from Fond du Lac St. Mary's Springs High School was said to be stranded "somewhere" in Europe.

The tour was supposed to have been a six-week travel and study excursion, and it cost each student about $1,000.

Some of the students took the affair as a lark, others were bit-ter and a few were anxious, but nobody was reported suffering.

All had lodging, accommodations and return plane reservations, the spokesman said.

U.S. Planning Cut In Troops in Korea

SEOUL (AP) — The Nixon Administration's plans to cut the 60,000-man U.S. force in Korea caused a stir today in the South Korean government, which did not expect such a move until the late 1970s.

U.S. Ambassador William Porter called on Premier Chung Il-kwon Monday to tell him of his government's desire to reduce its forces in the peninsula, the premier's press officer announced today. American officials accompanying Secretary of State William P. Rogers on his current Asian tour said the two governments would begin consultations "rather soon" on the troop reduction.

pressed not only in words but in deeds," Father Vosbeek said.

The sun went under the clouds momentarily. It had broken through minutes before the ceremony after rain had pelted the area.

"Receive in Giving"
"For it is in giving that we receive," the priest said, quoting the prayer for peace of St. Francis of Assisi. "and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

A young bugler blew Taps as the flag was raised by two Marines to the top of the pole. Handkerchiefs covered the noses of more than one woman, while men held their hands and looked at the ground or the flag as it descended.

They stood around in groups after the ceremony and talked. The photographer from a local weekly newspaper posed a picture in front of the plaque.

Children playing on the playground equipment, provided by the Town of Dale. The park is the first playground for the children of Medina.

A baseball diamond at the far end of the two-acre plot donated by the Armitage family in memory of their son rests quietly.

Several girls tried the slide but gave it up as too wet while their mothers talked. A big sister pushed her smaller brother and sister on a swinging bench.

Armitage Memorial Park had been officially dedicated due to the efforts of Lions Donald ND Vernon Truesdale, Franklin Runge and William Schroeder of the Town of Dale recreation committee.

The flagpole, donated by Mrs. Margaret Haase, awaited another flag so that "the Stars and Stripes may always wave over Armitage Park."

Several small saplings relied on wooden supports as they slowly grew in the July dusk.

Birds twittered in nearby fields. And the sun continued to sink with an escort of clouds in the west.

Children and Adults Breathing by Mouth

By George C. Thosteson, M.D. I grant that the "habit" for one These, if infected, could should be stopped, but before also cause the bad breath jumping to the conclusion that it Or is there any other obstruc- is "just a habit," have your tion interfering with easy pas- pediatrician or a nose-throat sage of air through the nose? specialist examine her, because there could be a cause — enlarged adenoids and tonsils.

There's not much point in trying to cure a habit if some underlying condition is causing the habit As I've said before (maybe a thousand times?) there's no substitute for finding the cause if you expect to find the right answer

Dr. Thosteson

Dear Dr Thosteson: Will iodine, either regular or white, make moles go away? I have several moles and after several weeks they seem to be drying up, but my legs have ached all the time — I have taken into consideration that I have varicose veins and am on my feet eight hours a day. But it seems worse — Mrs JS

Could it be possible that my adenoids, at this age, would still be the cause? I've had this problem since an early age I have tried to correct it but am unable to I'm very self-conscious about it — Mrs MB

It's possible, although perhaps not overly likely, that some adenoidal enlargement persists. However as I point out in the answer to the letter preceding yours, other nasal obstructions may be involved. The obstruc- 2 years old, eats with his left hand My husband is trying to not) shut off the nasal passages completely. But if the obstruc- tion is only partial, it still can't make enough difference to cause mouth breathing

I strongly suggest examina- tion by a nose and throat specialist to look for polyps in the nose, bent septum between the nostrils, chronic infection or other interference

No kind of iodine will remove moles. If yours indeed "seem to be drying up," then they aren't moles, but are something else (I don't know what they might be, in that case)

I can't see why the iodine would have any effect on your aching legs but since that trouble grows gradually worse with varicose veins, I'd suspect the veins are the trouble

Dear Dr Thosteson My son, may be involved. The obstruc- 2 years old, eats with his left hand My husband is trying to break him by putting the fork in his right hand If he takes the fork in his left hand, my husband takes the fork and hits his left hand with it. Should he try to break the boy or just let him go left-handed? — WM

Change of hand dominance is not recommended By all means let the little fellow use whichever

Opening lead: King of diamonds

East plays the seven of diamonds at trick one. Take a little time to plan your play and decide whether or not you would take the trick. Then read on Eisenberg made the proper play of winning the first trick. Hopefully you did too. Now, what did Eisenberg lead at trick two? He returned a diamond. Did you?

You should try to establish the diamond suit for spade and club discards. If the suit divides evenly (3-3), dummy has sufficient entries to run the diamonds (spade king and heart queen). If the suit divides 4-2, the club king might prove to be an entry for the fifth diamond. In any case, it costs nothing to test and establish the diamonds

West won the second trick with the jack of diamonds. East playing the eight. East now led the jack of clubs. Do you cover? Eisenberg covered, and East played the ace, queen and nine of clubs. Eisenberg ruffed with the six, and West followed with the club 10. Now what do you do?

Billy played the ace of hearts and a heart to the queen. When everyone followed, he ruffed a diamond with a high trump. Since diamonds were 3-3, Eisenberg no longer needed the spade finesse for his contract. One spade was discarded on one of the good diamonds in dummy (after the last trump was drawn of course), and four hearts came rolling in

COOL IT

By Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Keeping one's cool during the hot days of summer can be quite a trick for the home-maker with a family. The youngsters don't want this, don't like that, or just haven't time to eat on their summer run to ball practice, or the swimming pool.

With the cook in mind . . . the little lady who gets hit by the heat, too, especially in the kitchen . . . these recipes collected for today are appetite teasers and guaranteed to keep the family cool!

FRESH APPLE BATIDA

1 large eating apple, cored and cut into chunks
 1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid-sugar mixture
 1/4 cup apple cider
 1 tablespoon or more sugar
 1/2 cup cracked ice

Whirl apple with rest of ingredients in blender until liquified. Serve over ice. Recipe makes two large servings.

BANANA-MELON BATIDA

1 banana
 1 cup diced canteloupe or other melon
 1/2 teaspoon ascorbic acid-sugar mixture
 1 cup pineapple juice
 Fresh mint leaves

Whirl banana and melon with ascorbic acid-sugar mixture in blender until liquified. Add pineapple juice, blend for one second, pour over ice cubes. Garnish with mint. Recipe makes two servings.

FRUIT SODA BATIDA

1/2 cup cracked ice
 2 cups fresh pineapple chunks
 1 large peach, cut into chunks
 6 strawberries
 1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid-sugar mixture
 1/4 cup or more sugar
 16 ounces club soda

Berries for garnish

Put ice, fruit, ascorbic acid-sugar mixture and sugar in blender. Whirl until liquified. Pour over ice in glasses about half-full. Add soda. Stir briefly. Garnish each with a berry.

POTATO SALAD PLATE

1 cup salad oil
 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar
 2 tablespoons lemon juice, freshly squeezed
 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
 1/4 teaspoon seasoned pepper
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

1 pound frozen Southern style hash brown potatoes
 1 can (8 oz.) cut green beans, drained
 1 can (14 oz.) artichoke hearts, drained and halved
 6 pitted ripe olives, drained and halved

6 slices red onion
 6 rings green pepper
 1 tomato, cut in wedges
 Anchovies (optional)

To make dressing: In a jar with a lid, combine all ingredients; in first part of recipe (salad oil through garlic salt). Shake to mix well.

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water to cover until tender but not mushy, about 5 minutes. Drain; turn into a shallow glass baking dish and cool slightly. Add beans and artichokes, but do not stir. Pour dressing over all. Chill several hours.

Drain dressing from potato-vegetable mixture and reserve. On lettuce bed in salad bowl, arrange marinated potato mixture and olives, onion, green pepper and tomato in groups. Garnish with anchovies, if desired. Serve with reserved oil-and-vinegar

Delicious (and secretarily nutritious) are these milk punches so easily prepared for non-hungry members of the family on a very hot day. Both the Strawberry Cooler and the Golden Meadow Ice will appeal to both youngsters and adults.

Universities' Regent Returns to School

STEVENS POINT (AP) — When Mrs. Mary Williams, 42, of Stevens Point returns to school this fall to pick up some credits toward her masters degree—she will have a dual role on the Stevens Point State University Campus.

Mrs. Williams is a member of the Board of Regents that runs the State Universities System.

Dialog with youth is an important responsibility of a regent, says Mrs. Williams, who is known as one of the regents in tune with student attitudes.

"What we must do is use the advisory capability of students and faculty more," she said. "This is a creative way of getting to the issues."

She hasn't taken any graduate work in two years, but decided to return because her youngest daughter will enter kindergarten this fall.

Besides being the only coed on the 13 member board, she is the only woman in the group that runs the system and its 60,000 students.

She said the board should have a wider variety of members—possibly including a recent graduate of the system—and more representatives from the populous areas of the state, "which supply so many of our students."

"And," she added, "perhaps more women."

A statute calls for at least one woman on the board—and tradition calls for appointing regents from communities which host the universities.

There are no universities from the system in Milwaukee or Madison, the areas which supply most of the students. So they have no representation.

Mrs. Williams, who admits to a feminist pleasure at being the only woman on the board, says she should have received her masters degree when her five year term on the board expires.

"The men are very courteous," said the mother of four, "even when I interrupt them."

Marriage Promises Exchanged

STOCKBRIDGE — Miss Marilyn Head and Wayne Bauer exchanged wedding promises in a 4 p.m. ceremony Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Head, route 2, Hubert, and Mr. and Mrs. George Bauer.

Miss Diane Krebsbach attended as maid of honor. Mrs. Leonard Morrell and Miss Shirley Bauer were bridesmaids.

Kurt Bushman was best man. Leonard Morrell and Tom Head were groomsmen.

The couple greeted guests at a reception at Hiawatha Hall, Quinney, before leaving on a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin.

They will reside in Stockbridge.

Family Reunions

Forty-six persons attended the 30th annual Zillmer family reunion Saturday at the Edwin J. Zillmer home, Rohrer Street, Clintonville. Next year's event will be planned by the E. J. Zillmer family.

The annual Klingbeil family reunion was Sunday at Cedar Springs Resort, Manawa. Mrs. Walter Steinbach and Edward Klingbeil had charge of arrangements.

One hundred fifty members of the Robert Plamann family gathered for a reunion Saturday at Plamann Park. (Mr. Plamann was the donor of the land for the park.) Next year's picnic is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lillge and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Olp.

Chef Hulbert Cooks Barbecue Treat on Y Rooftop for Forum

"Always be yourself," admonished Joseph Hulbert, chef at Riverview Country Club, as he liberally salted and peppered a layer of fish fillets arranged on a long strip of foil.

"Don't ever try to outdo your neighbor," on went the rich sauce of his own making.

"If you are a beans, wiener and buns cook, then serve just that," he told his listeners as he deftly folded the long sheet of foil into a double "drug-store" fold and placed the wrapped fish on one of two barbecues.

The occasion was one of the suppers of the Appleton YMCA Forum. These business women have them often but and demand exactly what she wants for the money she's spending, he said.

Joe served turkey steaks (a whole turkey cut sideways into two-inch or more strips, done by the butcher) barbecued to a delicious turn.

Ranch Potatoes made in a cast iron skillet on the grill, using canned whole small potatoes; Patio Salad tossed with Joe's own dressing in a wooden salad bowl; the fish barbecued in Lemon Butter Sauce; and a dessert of Hot Fruit Salad, steeped in kirsch, rum, brown sugar and orange juice concentrate.

Here are some of his gourmet recipes, all tried by the Forum members on the memorable occasion of that recent supper.

Ann Landers on Page D-12

never one like this meal served on the rooftop of the Y building.

This one was different. It was prepared by Chef Hulbert, who gave his bright but informative talk on gourmet cooking as he worked at two barbecues and his long table.

On TV, Radio

Joe is used to talking while he cooks. He's a regular on Channel 11, WLUC-TV, on the Backyard Barbecue show at 3:30 p.m. every Sunday, he also appears on the High Noon Show Mondays. His program on WAPL, is called "At Your Service" at 9 a.m. Mondays.

The reason for Monday is because that's his day off from his duties at Riverview, he enjoys his busman's holiday.

He made his point at the cookout when he said that wise shopping can provide gourmet meals without being expensive. The homemaker, whether career girl or family gal, can do wonders if she buys economically and stashes the real bargains away in refrigerator, freezer and cupboard. But she must learn to shop, read labels, compare occasionally until potatoes are well coated and hot.

HOT FRUIT SALAD

Fruits in season are marinated in a mixture of 32 ounces of frozen orange juice concentrate, 1/2 pound brown sugar, 1/4 cup kirsch and 1/4 cup rum. Refrigerate overnight. The fruits served at the Y party included chunks or slices of cantaloupe, honey dew melon, oranges, apples sliced with peel on, bananas, blueberries, whole strawberries, dark pitted cherries and white grapes.

Place on grill in pan or skillet, near top if it's warm, and heat fruit just through but do not cook it. Serve in fruit cups, bowls or mugs with spoons.

CHEF JOE'S FISH BARBECUE

4 ounces boneless fish (any kind)
Salt, pepper to taste
Lemon Butter Sauce
Cooked bacon bits
Chopped parsley
Chopped onion
Butter

On a large sheet of foil, place the fish (these can be fillets). Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover with sauce. Sprinkle generously with crumbled bacon, parsley and chopped onion. Wrap foil upward and then double fold into packet. Place over hot coals to cook for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot.

Chef Joseph Hulbert turns a turkey steak with deftness as he prepared a sumptuous barbecue meal on the rooftop at the Appleton YMCA. The event was a supper meeting for the Business Girls Forum.

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

When French men and Francophile Americans dine together, wine must be served. During the recent state visit of President Georges Pompidou of France, various arrangements differed from city to city.

In New York, two French wines were poured at a luncheon for the President, a white and a red Burgundy (neither one memorable).

In Chicago and San Francisco, a different philosophy prevailed. The French visitor was given only American wines. Those in Chicago were selected at a blind tasting conducted by the French Consul-General, an inspired bit of public relations promoting Franco-American amity.

The luncheon menu from our wine capital, San Francisco, reveals that the Presidential palate was treated to Christian Brothers Pinot Chardonnay with the first course of shrimp and Cabernet Sauvignon with the main course of capon. Both wines represent quality Napa Valley, California production from two excellent grape varieties.

Chardonnay is the grape used for all of the finest white Burgundies, which connoisseurs consider to be the greatest dry white wines of the world. It is also one of the two important champagne grapes.

In California as elsewhere the Chardonnay is relatively difficult to grow, low-yielding, and highly prized. Consequently it is expensive. When a California wine-maker offers you his Pinot Chardonnay, you can be fairly sure he's putting his best foot forward.

The Chardonnay that was served to the French President is a light, dry, wine delicate and subtle enough for the most elegant dinner parties. It goes particularly well with shellfish, veal or omelette and tang of the sea require a fine dry wine. You may also enjoy it with other fish and poultry.

The Presidential first course of shrimp in San Francisco used one of the most popular

Don't Forget Soap

A bar of soap is an indispensable part of every first aid kit. A careful washing with gauze dipped in soap and water is the medically sound way to treat cuts.

Hot Bath Soothes Cramped Muscles

When your zest for gardening or sports has taken its toll in tense and aching muscles, draw a long deep hot bath. Squish up a bar of soap, lather with a sponge and submerge in the hot water for at least ten minutes—no sooner after your workout, no better! Keep the water at the same hot temperature by replenishing it often. Lie back in the tub so that your whole body can enjoy the soothing benefits. After relaxing quietly with no exertion, you will be able to feel cramped muscles unkink and limber up. When you emerge, towel briskly and massage with lotion or liniment. The latter is even more effective after a hot bath. Then have a longsize towel ready to envelop you en route to bed.

Shrimps Ravigote

Since it's an old sauce in culinary history, ravigote has many variations. Most frequently it's made by taking a thin white sauce (based either on milk or on the stock appropriate to the dish you plan to serve it with), and reinvigorating it with any or all of the following:

Tarragon or wine vinegar, lemon juice, white wine; finely minced shallot, scallion, onion, or garlic; fresh or dried tarragon, chervil, chives, watercress, or parsley; possibly minced capers or gherkins, a touch of mustard or cayenne pepper.

Add the seasonings in small amounts tasting as you go, until you get the balance and strength you like. Heat through, let stand for at least 10 minutes, then strain or not as you prefer. Serve hot with hot dishes of fish, poultry, organ meats and vegetables. Or cool to accompany cold poached fish and shellfish.

Should you be serving a fancy dinner, why not begin with Shrimps Ravigote instead of the familiar shrimp cocktail with red sauce? Or serve the sauce with a hot main course of any fish, poached, steamed, baked, or broiled. Or with chicken and with a festive glass of Pinot Chardonnay.

Should you be serving a fancy dinner, why not begin with Shrimps Ravigote instead of the familiar shrimp cocktail with red sauce? Or serve the sauce with a hot main course of any fish, poached, steamed, baked, or broiled. Or with chicken and with a festive glass of Pinot Chardonnay.

Hot Bath Soothes Cramped Muscles

When your zest for gardening or sports has taken its toll in tense and aching muscles, draw a long deep hot bath. Squish up a bar of soap, lather with a sponge and submerge in the hot water for at least ten minutes—no sooner after your workout, no better! Keep the water at the same hot temperature by replenishing it often. Lie back in the tub so that your whole body can enjoy the soothing benefits. After relaxing quietly with no exertion, you will be able to feel cramped muscles unkink and limber up. When you emerge, towel briskly and massage with lotion or liniment. The latter is even more effective after a hot bath. Then have a longsize towel ready to envelop you en route to bed.

Shrimps Ravigote

Since it's an old sauce in culinary history, ravigote has many variations. Most frequently it's made by taking a thin white sauce (based either on milk or on the stock appropriate to the dish you plan to serve it with), and reinvigorating it with any or all of the following:

Tarragon or wine vinegar, lemon juice, white wine; finely minced shallot, scallion, onion, or garlic; fresh or dried tarragon, chervil, chives, watercress, or parsley; possibly minced capers or gherkins, a touch of mustard or cayenne pepper.

Add the seasonings in small amounts tasting as you go, until you get the balance and strength you like. Heat through, let stand for at least 10 minutes, then strain or not as you prefer. Serve hot with hot dishes of fish, poultry, organ meats and vegetables. Or cool to accompany cold poached fish and shellfish.

Parents and Children

A Birthday Party for a Younger Brother or Sister

Geoffrey has just reached his first birthday. Our daughter Marguerite is now three years old. On the occasion of Geoffrey's birth I wrote about sibling rivalry and how this problem can be met. My wife and I foresaw that her little brother's birthday celebration was likely to evoke possible resentment on Marguerite's part.

A birthday party doesn't mean much to a one-year-old. More for his sister's sake than for his, we decided to make a family occasion of it. So my wife baked a cake, complete with icing. We decorated it and stuck a candle in its top. We made and wrapped presents, blew up balloons and stretched crepe streamers across the living room. Marguerite helped with all this. She was happy and excited because she knew that she, in honor of Geoffrey's birthday, would also receive presents for herself.

Marguerite wanted to know, of course, which of Geoffrey's presents she might share. And so we explained that just as some of her toys and books were too delicate for the kind of treatment Geoffrey might give them, so he needed some things that he might call his very own. She understood and appreciated that. There were no problems to speak of. We all put on paper hats, guzzled cake and soda, sang "Happy Birthday to you," and had a great party.

In any family of more than one child, there is bound to be occasional jealousy. As long as you are even-handed, show no favoritism and are able to foresee some of the possible causes of friction before it occurs, you can minimize such problems. The trick is to place yourself in your child's shoes and to ask: "How would I feel if I were three, four or five years old and had a baby brother or sister...or vice versa."

Your older child may need occasional treatment similar to that accorded baby brother or sister. He or she may want to know what it's like to have a bottle or to be cuddled like a baby. He may need reassurance that the younger member in the family won't take over his belongings or that he won't replace him in your affections. To an extent that this is possible, spend time with each child individually and with both children together. Then, instead of feeling competitive, each child will be able to observe in your treatment of the other what he himself enjoys and what he knows he'll receive in turn.

What toys does your child need at different ages? Send for Arnold Arnold's booklet, "Recommended Toys and Activities." This invaluable check-list taken from Mr. Arnold's book, Your Child and You, is age-grouped from babyhood to age 13. Send 20 cents and a large (No. 10), stamped, self-addressed envelope to Arnold Arnold, Dept. A., c/o this newspaper.

The Ailing House Stain, Then Refinish Davenport

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Instead of the usual trouble of wood darkening with age, I have the reverse. My French provincial divan, under a north-facing picture window, gets no sun. Yet the top rail has faded, like the color of butter in the center, then darkened toward each arm. How can I restore the original darker shade, without having to put a new finish on the top rail? — Worcester.

A: I don't know of any product which will do this and not give a phony appearance, sorry to say. Perhaps some friend can help us? The only way I can recommend is removing finishing to bare wood, then staining it the desired shade and refinishing.

Q: For two years, our automatic washer has been emptying into our septic tank. I was told that after this length of time I should have the tank pumped out, as the washer may spoil the tank action if it continues steadily. A dry well was suggested. Up to now, we've had no trouble with the tank. What is your opinion? — Leominster, Mass.

A: The chances are obviously excellent that the tank is the right capacity to take care of your needs, including the washer. But I would certainly recommend an inspection and probably a pumping out. With a performance like this, I don't believe you'll need a dry well.

'Oh, My Achin' Back' Is Second Most Frequent Cry

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The middle-aged matron was waiting for a bus at the corner of First Ave. and East 34th street, a few blocks from the United Nations building.

Suddenly, she started rhythmically vibrating her pelvis in the motion known by devotees of burlesque shows as "the bumps."

A New York policeman, directing traffic at the busy intersection, dashed to the bus-stop intent on driving anything lewd or lascivious from his beat. He was about to call the paddywagon when the now indignant woman gave this explanation for her pelvic gymnastics:

She had just come from nearby New York University Medical Centers and was merely practicing the "pelvic thrust" exercises prescribed by doctors as rehabilitation for her recent acute attack of backache.

Trouble Improved
"And she talked her way out of it," smiled Dr. Nancy C. Kester, of NYU's Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine, in recalling the case. "She was a patient of a colleague of mine, Dr. Harvey P. Kopell, and, as I recall it, the woman's conscientiousness about practicing was rewarding."

Her back trouble did improve. The incident is only a vignette in the many-sided quest to improve the lots of the nearly 30 million Americans suffering from chronic backache.

The condition, one of the nation's most serious health problems, is known to doctors as "low-back syndrome."

But the millions of sufferers use no such fancy nomenclature.

Aching Back
"Oh, my achin' back!" they are wont to howl as they hobble to physicians' offices or hospitals for treatment.

"Next to upper respiratory complaints, backaches rank No. 2 in bringing people to a general practitioner's office," said Dr. Ira Rumney of Kirksville (Mo.) College of Osteopathy and Surgery, one of the nation's six osteopathic colleges.

Types of treatment vary widely, depending largely upon whether the patient sees an M.D. or a D.O. (doctor of osteopathy).

Some patients may be told only to stay in bed. Others may receive drugs which kill pain or relax muscles. They may undergo surgery, massages, body manipulation or heat treatment. They may be equipped with corsets or braces or pelvis-pulling traction devices using weights strung over the foot of the bed.

Just as treatments vary, so do the causes of backaches. Most are triggered, doctors say, by back strains suffered at work at play or in automobile or other accidents.

But they also can result—especially if you have long-weakened back muscles—from stepping off a curbstone or from an automobile in an awkward manner . . . leaning over the washbowl while brushing the teeth or shaving . . . cutting your toenails in a cramped position . . . turning in bed . . .

sneezing violently . . . picking up a fishing box or other relatively light object; or, as at least one sufferer reported, "lifting a monument."

Playful Pass
There's also the case, reported by one osteopath, of a woman "who injured herself after her husband made a playful pass at her from behind while she was washing the floor."

Here are some grimmer, overall statistics on backaches: —The National Safety Council estimates that back troubles cause 500,000 workers to be off the job sometime during the year. This costs employers about $1 billion in sick pay and in wages for their replacements.

—While uncomplicated muscular strain—or "joint-locking," as some osteopaths put it—is one of the major causes of low-back pain, a Veterans Administration survey indicates that as many as two out of five American adults have a "herniated disc," better known as a "slipped disc."

Shock Absorbers
Discs are small roundish structures, consisting of a thick gelatinous material encased in a tough ligament, which act as shock absorbers between each pair of the spinal column's 32 vertebrae.

Often, as a result of a back injury or strain—and sometimes without obvious injury—the surrounding ligament can tear, allowing the jelly-like disc material to protrude and press on nerve roots. This results in pain in the back and often in the legs as well.

Surgery is often recommended, but surefire cures from surgery do not invariably occur, so the value of surgery—except for extreme cases—is a subject of controversy among doctors.

—Almost 50 per cent of the population has some inborn skeletal defect, such as having one leg slightly shorter than the other; oddball outgrowths of bone from the sides of the spine; or a so-called "extra" vertebra in the lower-back.

"But," said Dr. Rumney of the Kirksville College, as he pointed to a dangling, clacking model of the human skeleton, "many people live with such anomalies very nicely—provided they have good supporting muscles and are not subject to unusual trauma or infection."

NYC's Dr. Kester says the most common causes of back pain are muscle strain and herniated discs, followed by degenerative arthritis.

The latter often accompanies the aging process. It is characterized by abnormally dense bone in certain areas of the spine and results, she says, from faulty action of the muscles and ligaments that act on bones.

Dr. Charles Wahl, a psychiatrist at the University of California at Los Angeles' School of Medicine, contends that up to 90 per cent of backaches are basically due to veryingly severe but deep-seated emotional problems which, in turn, cause a tightening of all muscles, including those of the spinal region.

"The vast majority of backaches," he says, "are treated as though they were orthopedic problems and almost never as psychogenic ones. . . (but) . . . most orthopedists don't learn beans about the muscles and they don't learn anything about the mind . . ."

Whatever the causes of backaches—physical, emotional, or both—most doctors agree that man's spinal equipment got short-changed when he evolved from a four-legged status to that of an upright biped, and that this made his back vulnerable to miseries.

Said Irvin M. Korr, a research physiologist at the Kirksville College:

"We've taken this magnificent cantilever bridge—the arched spinal apparatus and four supporting limbs of the quadruped—and turned it into a sky-scraper . . ."

Center of Gravity
"Whereas the four-legged creature has a low center of gravity on a very broad base, upright man has a high center of gravity supported on a very small base—his two legs—and so we are constantly challenged to keep the center of gravity in line with that base."

"Moreover, we have put a brain on top of the sky-scraper—and this presents us with additional problems."

Korr is one of the few scientists in the country doing basic research on the fundamental mechanisms of backaches as a possible aid toward earlier detection of vulnerable backs.

His quest is part of a broader project, partly supported by the National Institutes of Health, based on Korr's concept that the spinal cord, through its marvelous network of nerve pathways, plays a key role in "organizing" disease processes not only in the back but throughout the body.

In another office at Kirksville, Dr. Rumney offers tips on how to avoid backaches:

Auto Riding
"Automobile riding is bad for backs," he says, "not only because it promotes lack of exercise, but also because the plain old mechanism of just sitting there promotes a distorted postural position . . . like a debutante slouch."

"The seats in modern cars are such that you sit too far back and too low."

"I had a travelling salesman come in, complaining about his chronic back-trouble. And I told him: 'Close your window near the driver's seat, so you'll tend to sit up straight. And, put an extension on your accelerator so you'll have to use your left foot instead of the right to step on the gas, which will also improve your riding posture.'"

"Aside from automobile riding, I'm also concerned about women and their high heels—

Injunction Ordered in Nonregistration Case

An injunction has been ordered in Dane County Circuit Court against Ken R. Rose, 1401 S. Driscoll St., for practicing as an engineer without first registering with the state.

The action was brought by the State of Wisconsin Examining Board of Architects, Professional Engineers, Designers and Land Surveyors.

and their girdles which let their abdominal muscles relax. "And my real pet-peeve is those crazy, crash-diets that many women undertake. "They become malnourished females with poor tissue quality, resulting in such manifestations as backache and neurotic symptoms of all kinds. Meanwhile, the body tries to function, with the result that everything is abnormally tuned down—like a woodchuck in hibernation. "It takes a good year, on a normal diet, to counteract the adverse effects of this hibernation."

Summer Art Workshop at Chilton

Teachers Perform Much Ado With Nothing

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — Hardly had the school bells stopped ringing, when some Fox Valley teachers took to the classroom again.

Now they were art students, but using an unusual theme: "Beg or borrow, but don't buy."

Imaginations and nimble fingers combined with frantic searches, as 17 teachers from Calumet, Manitowoc, Winnebago and Outagamie Counties, participated in the "Elementary Teacher Art Workshop on Materials and Use."

Meeting in a basement room of Chilton High School, the group of 16 women and one man, under the direction of Russell Carter, Oshkosh State University, enthusiastically set about creating something out of nothing; making thimbles and things into useful decorative articles, at little or no cost.

Increase Confidence
Purpose of the workshop, which earned the participants three undergraduate credits, was to provide a broad technical knowledge and facility in the area of art at the elementary level, and to increase teacher confidence in their ability to work with all kinds of materials.

Every morning from 9 a.m. to noon, teachers put on their thinking caps, while working with crayon, chalk, charcoal, pencil, conte crayon, pen and ink, tempera, finger paints, block, mon, Brayer, stencil and silk screen printing. They tackled wall hangings, crayon batik and tie dying.

Other art was formed with wire, styrofoam, boxes, clay and sand block.

At the end of the three-week session last week, displays were assembled showing some of the homework. Each student brought a constructed form of art and the procedure used was written out for all to study.

Colorful wallhangings of scraps of bright materials, yarn, straw and weeds formed Tabby weaving; mixtures of vibrant shades were blended with paraffin wax and commercial dye on muslin, to create hangings of Batik, a Javanese specialty.

There were displays of plaster carvings, everyone different, as the teacher-students, using wooden spoons for molds, sculptured faces, then affixed them to blocks of wood scraps covered with velvet. Some made several to decorate walls in their own homes.

Inexpensive Materials
All materials cost nothing, or next to it. Donald Goscock made a sandblock sculpture from a piece of foundry stone from Brillion Iron Works, using a flat and three-sided file and small brush.

Mrs. Clarence Mueller, Sherwood, created a pendant from a colorful piece of rock attached to braided fine gauge wire from Appleton Wire Works.

Using newspapers, string, sawdust, wheat paste, alum and a wooden base, mixed up with artistic talent, Mrs. Mildred Behnke, Brillion, produced a model fit for any mantel, and Mrs. Jean Dugin-ski, Menasha, took some clay from a construction site, where a basement was being excavated, and sculptured a bust.

An Indian totem pole was one of the box sculpture variations displayed by Mrs.

Mrs. Francis Conrad, James Madison Junior High School, Appleton, shows her sample of finished cardboard sculpture hippie creation to Miss Bernice Leinwander, St. Paul Lutheran School, Appleton. Mrs. Conrad chose the sculpture as a homework project while attending the three-week workshop on Art Materials and Use at Chilton High School.

Russell Carter, instructor from Oshkosh State University, looks on as Mrs. Norbert Euclide and Mrs. Jack Hertel, both of Chilton discuss the variations in plaster carvings made by the teacher-students. Wooden spoon molds were filled with plaster after liquid soap was applied to speed removal. Carvings, covered with India ink inexpensive metallic finish, were placed on wooden scrap blocks and covered with velvet. (Thiel Photos)

NEA Calls for Political Action

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Helen Bain, a Tennessee English teacher, has assumed the presidency of the National Education Association with a call for more political activity by the nation's school teachers.

"Whether we like it or not, education is in the political arena," Mrs. Bain declared Monday night in her installation address.

"It is imperative that we tool up our political might to defend the right of every child to be given an equal chance to grow," she said.

The Nashville teacher said the NEA has learned that sometimes teacher strikes are necessary.

Strikes Distasteful
"And the NEA will be 100 per cent behind them," she declared.

"As teachers, we believe that strikes are distasteful. We are pleased that for every strike 20 contracts are negotiated professionally," she said.

Mrs. Bain, 47, declared the first priority goal for the organization representing 1.1 million of the nation's two million teachers is a professional negotiation law in every state. Twenty-three of the 50 states now have such laws.

Such laws, she said, will lessen the need to strike. She said they would improve communications with local school boards and provide orderly and constructive means for achieving fair contracts.

Financial Aid Needed
"School boards which deny teachers negotiation agreements have only themselves to blame if teachers are forced to take drastic action," Mrs. Bain declared.

She said another top NEA priority must be adequate financing for schools.

"We must elect a Congress that will vote aid to education," Mrs. Bain asserted.

"And we must also attempt to force a change in the administration's priorities. It will take real political activity to accomplish this."

"Every teacher not only should belong to a political party, but some of you have to run for committeeman or committeewoman," Mrs. Bain said.

Politicize Youth
"You have to become valued members of the party—and a valued member is one who can deliver votes and raise money," she said.

Mrs. Bain said another urgent priority was getting youth effectively involved in the nation's political processes.

She said NEA support was an important help in obtaining Congressional approval for lowering the voting age to 18.

Donald E. Morrison, San Diego, Calif., history and social sciences teacher, was named as president-elect to succeed Mrs. Bain in 1971.

Morrison, 45, will serve as vice president for the coming year.

Bosox, Tigers Split

Orioles Whip Faltering Yankees; Nats Lose Pair

BY HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

It was only three weeks ago that New York's resurrected Yankees were eyeing first place in the American League's East Division. Now they're peeking over their shoulders instead.

Nine losses in the last 11 games—the latest a 6-2 whipping in Baltimore Tuesday night—have dropped the Yanks a fat 6½ games off the Orioles' pace and closer to fourth place than they are to first.

Detroit is hot on the Yankees' trail and a two-night double-header split with Boston left the Tigers just one-half game back of New York. Boston is running fourth in the American League East.

Boston won the first game 4-3 but the Tigers bounced back with a 4-3 decision in the 10-in. nightcap. Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Washington 7-3 and 7-5. Milwaukee took two from Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings and 1-0. Minnesota topped Oakland 4-2 and Kansas City edged California 4-3.

Looking Forward

Three weeks ago, New York's mini-Bombers had crept to within 1½ games of the first place Orioles and were anxiously looking forward to the three-game series that started in Baltimore Tuesday night.

But the bottom has been falling out since then and their slide has made the series crucial only to the Yankees, trying to hang on to second place, but not the birds.

New York rallied for a run in the ninth inning Tuesday to tie the score at 2-2 but it was a momentary thing. A walk, Frank Robinson's single and an error by Gene Michael loaded the bases in the bottom of the 10th and then Brooks Robinson crashed a grand slam homer to win it for Baltimore.

Mike Cuellar won his 10th, retiring 14 straight batters over one stretch after allowing an early homer to Yankee pitcher Mel Stottlemyre.

Rookie Elliot Maddox, whose eighth inning double had tied the score, gave Detroit its second game victory over Boston when he opened the 10th with a home run. Reggie Smith and Mike Andrews hit consecutive homers for the Sox.

Starts Rally

Smith, who had five hits and four RBIs in the doubleheader, started a three-run Boston rally in the first inning of the opener with a homer and Rico Petrocelli later added a two-run clout. Jim Northrup hit a pair for the Tigers.

Milwaukee moved past Chicago into fifth place in the West by sweeping the White Sox.

Ted Savage's pinch homer in the 12th inning broke up the opener for the Brewers and re-warded Marty Pattin, who went all the way, with the victory. In the nightcap, Lew Krausse pitched a four-hitter and turned in four straight victories. Chicago Milwaukee's first shutout of the season. Mike Hegan scored the game's only run when he doubled, moved up on a sacrifice and came in on a throwing error.

The sweep gave Milwaukee

KIMBERLY — Jack Coenen and Bob Ellison combined for a 1-hit shutout as Jack's Rose Hill Bar nipped Hide-A-way, 1-0, in the Kimberly Open Classic League Tuesday night.

In the first game of the night, Pizza Hut held off a late nightcap. Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Washington 7-3 and 7-5. Milwaukee took two from Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings and 1-0. Minnesota topped Oakland 4-2 and Kansas City edged California 4-3.

Winning Runs

Fosse tagged a bases-loaded single that drove in the tying and winning runs in the first game before Nettles' three-run double clinched the victory. Then, in the nightcap, Fosse tripped for another run, and also homered.

Frank Howard tagged a homer in each game for Washington, increasing his season total to 23.

The sweep moved the Indians past Washington into fifth place in the AL East.

Harmon Killebrew's bases-loaded double drove in three runs and Minnesota rallied for four runs in the fifth inning to whip Oakland.

Stan Williams hurled five shutout innings in relief to earn the victory.

Reliever Ted Abernathy, acquired from St. Louis last Thursday, picked up his third straight victory for the Royals.

Bill Sorrell's pinch single drove in the decisive run in the eighth inning after Paul Schaal opened with a single and moved up on a grounder.

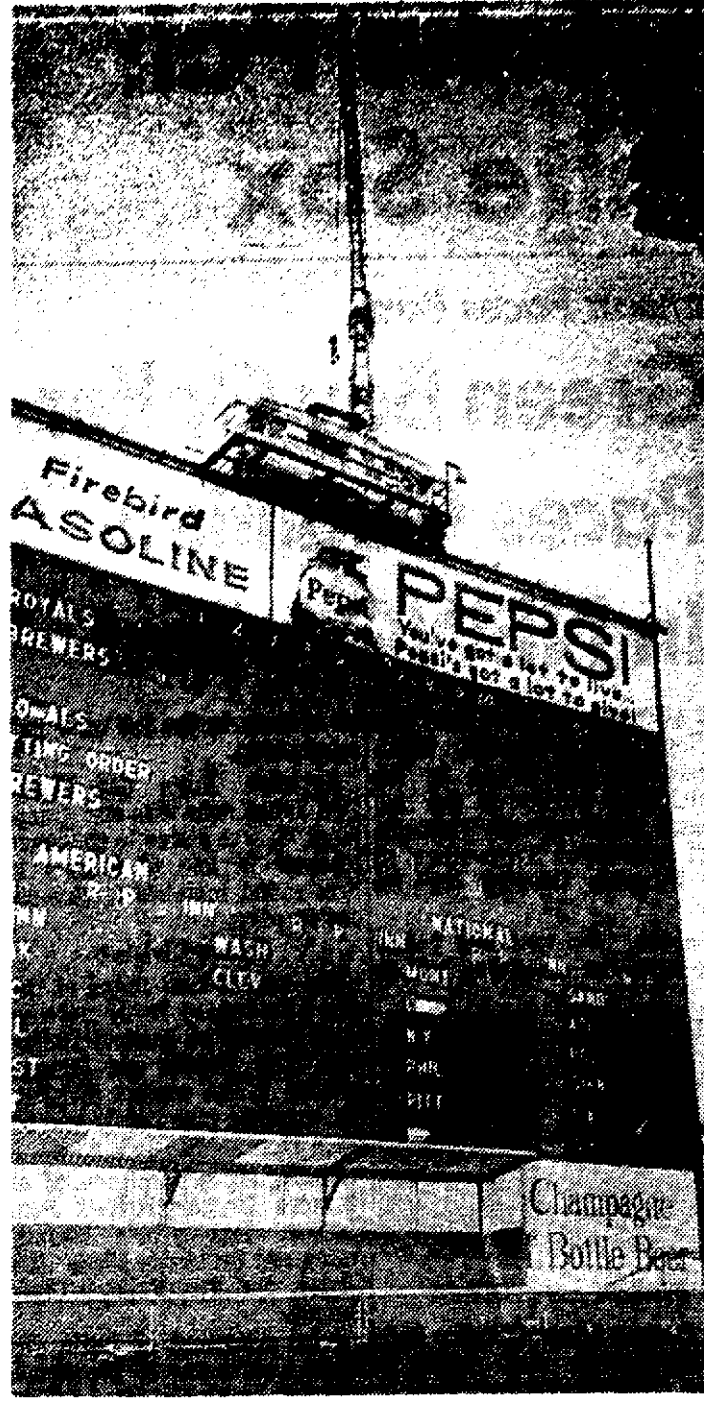

Cardinals Javier Fined, Suspended

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals were notified Tuesday of a three-day suspension and $150 fine for second baseman Julian Javier, who bumped Umpire Billy Williams in a game Monday night against the New York Mets in Shea Stadium.

Javier, called out while attempting to stretch a single into a double leading off the second inning, leaped to his feet to protest that second baseman Al Weis had not applied the tag.

Williams immediately ejected Javier, who had been banished from only two previous games in his National League career. The Cardinals said Jim Kennerly of their Tulsa farm club of all the way, with the victory. In the nightcap, Lew Krausse pitched a four-hitter and turned in four straight victories. Chicago Milwaukee's first shutout of the season. Mike Hegan scored the game's only run when he doubled, moved up on a sacrifice and came in on a throwing error.

Davini, Shaffer, Deck Named To Midwest League 'Star' Unit

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Five Tuesday for the game to be chosen to the 25-player All-Star team that will meet first half championship Quincy in the annual Midwest League All-Star baseball game.

League President Jim Doster of Decatur named the lineup

'Wega-Fremont Defeats Kimberly

WEYAUWEGA — Chip Wall allowed only two hits as Weyauwega-Fremont scored a 7-0 win over Kimberly in a Fox Valley Legion League victory Monday.

The winners scored five unearned runs as Kimberly committed six errors. The losers got a hit in the first and one in the fifth.

Weyauwega scored once in the second, once in the third, once in the fourth, three times in the sixth and once more in the seventh. Greg Oelke paced the winners with two hits including a triple.

Merritt, Simpson Named Reds Pitchers Top NL Staff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran Jim Merritt and rookie Wayne Simpson, who have combined for 27 victories for the high-flying Cincinnati Reds, were among the eight pitchers named today to the National League All-Star team.

The selections by Manager Gil Hodges of the world champion New York Mets were announced by the National League office here.

Merritt and Simpson, along with Joe Hoerner of Philadelphia and Claude Osteen of Los Angeles, were named to the All-Star team for the first time. Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Tom Seaver of the Mets, Gaylord Perry of San Francisco and 46-year-old reliever Hoyt Wilhelm of the Atlanta Braves were Hodges' other selections. Hoerner, Merritt and Osteen are the only left-handers.

The annual baseball classic will be played July 14 in Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

10th Straight

Gibson, who won his 10th consecutive game last Sunday to make his season record 12-3, is the senior member of the staff pitcher in All-Star experience. He is on the squad for the seventh time and has appeared in four games.

Wilhelm was named to the NL team for the first time since 1953, when he was with the New York Giants. He was an American League All-Star selection three times.

Early this season, Wilhelm became the first pitcher in major league history to take the mound in 1,000 games. He had a 2-3 season record through Monday.

"I threw him the pitch he was looking for, a fast ball," said the Oshkosh State University product. "He knows I rely on my fast ball, and he was looking for it. I just made it too good."

Hartenstein Gets Release From St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Tuesday the unconditional release of right-handed pitcher Chuck Hartenstein to make room for pitcher Nelson Briles' return.

Hartenstein, acquired June 22 from the Pittsburgh Pirates, appeared in six games and yielded 24 hits and 13 runs in 13 1-3 innings.

Briles was placed on the disabled list June 17 after reinjuring a hamstring muscle. He is scheduled to pitch for the Cardinals Wednesday in New York against the Mets.

Neenah Plays Appleton '9' To Stalemate

NEENAH — The Appleton and Neenah Legion baseball teams grappled to a 7-7 tie here Tuesday night in a Fox River Valley American Legion League game which was called at the end of nine innings because of darkness.

The hosts had a chance to win the twilight contest in the last of the ninth, loading the bases with two out but a popup ended the game.

Appleton led, 5-3, at the end of 5½ innings only to have Neenah take a 7-5 lead at the end of six with a 4-run outburst in that frame, highlighted by Bruce Terwillegar's bases-loaded triple.

The visitors tied the game in the seventh, a walk forcing in one run and Dwight Mueller's single bringing in the other. They placed runners on second and third with one out in the eighth but failed to tally.

Lance Voelz and John Allen shared the Appleton pitching chores while Dene Storch and Jeff Love hurled for Neenah.

Appleton, which stranded 15 runners, was led by Mueller's three singles. It had 14 hits to Neenah's 11.

The Difficulties of Disengagement

The deep differences between the official United States position on the war in Indochina and that of several other participating nations was demonstrated during Secretary of State William Rogers visit to the Far East

Secretary Rogers commented that "at some point we believe it is possible that the Communists will decide it is in their best interests to negotiate an agreement which gives them representation proportionate to their numbers." This apparent suggestion that a coalition government in Vietnam would be acceptable to the United States considerably upset President Nguyen Van Thieu. President Thieu has firmly resisted any move toward a government which would include Viet Cong representation. He has jailed opponents who have even suggested it. Despite what appears to be the growing agitation by Vietnamese students for American troops to go home, President Thieu has repeatedly said that such a move is well into the future.

In Manila Secretary Rogers disagreed with the blast from Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman against American senators who are opposing the war. Such freedom of speech is not general in Southeast Asia. But there was more in the difference here than a misunderstanding of our First Amendment guarantees. The Thais are becoming increasingly worried that the United States is going to pull out of Southeast Asia, leaving Thailand the major stable force in the area and now strongly opposed by the Communist regimes. Thailand wants American financial support for any Thai troops sent to Cambodian or Vietnam as it has had in the past. One part of the Cooper-Church amendment to the foreign assistance bill is that no funds can go to finance third nation troops in Cambodia although this is unlikely to be approved in the House of Representatives. Despite some assurances, Thailand still has no native Thais in Cambodia.

President Nixon has often said that he intends to withdraw at least the great majority of American troops from Indochina although he qualifies the promise by saying that the rate of withdrawal depends upon the enemy. There is no sign at all that Hanoi intends to slow down its own war effort.

If Cambodia is overrun by the Communists or reinstates Prince Sihanouk, if President Thieu is overthrown or if Thailand finds itself involved in a hotter war in the north, it is likely that the United States will get the blame. What a mess!

Nature Conservancy

In a period of gratifyingly rapid growth of public concern about the protection of irreplaceable natural resources, including those valuable only for their beauty, there has come a proliferation of societies and clubs and associations soliciting memberships and contributions for objectives covering a broad range of problems and interests.

Most of these newly formed groups have praiseworthy purposes, are organized by men and women of conscience and zeal, and are doubtless worthy of support.

But as so often happens when there is an eruption of public concern, there is also a tendency for many good citizens to overlook the fact that there already exist worthy and tested organizations that are forgotten in the scramble for the organization of new groups and the enrollment of supporters for them.

One of these is Nature Conservancy, a nation-wide organization with 34 state chapters, including a Wisconsin chapter that has done some outstandingly useful and enterprising work in assuring the preservation of unique examples of primeval nature in all its forms that survive in Wisconsin, but that are in constant danger of destruction or extinction unless they are acquired by the public or such a quasi-public association.

The Wisconsin chapter has been well led. It has 21 projects now underway, not all of them yet financed. It needs members, and it needs contributions, and this article is a candid endorsement of both for the growth of a uniquely valuable public service organization.

Man is despoiling his land heritage.

Such native plant and animal communities that survive are often in dire danger of destruction as additional millions of acres of our countryside are put to more intensive human use every year.

The cause of Nature Conservancy has been expressed well by one of its Wisconsin leaders who explains that "every untouched, natural or wild area that we can save now from exploitation will give tomorrow's generations a living museum as a link to America's past."

Public agencies are working on saving or developing the larger scenic features, such as forests, marshes, wilderness lakes, and others. But too little has yet been done to assure the preservation of numerous smaller samples of primeval America and Wisconsin, virgin woods, unspoiled grasslands, bogs, and others.

These are the natural areas of primitive beauty where generations not yet born will some day go, and in the words of the eloquent Aldo Leopold:

"... on a still night sit quiet and listen, and think hard of everything you have seen and tried to understand. Then you may hear it — a vast pulsing harmony — its score inscribed on a thousand hills, its notes the lives and deaths of plants and animals, its rhythms spanning the seconds and the years."

Details on the program, purposes and needs of Nature Conservancy can be had by writing to Membership Chairman, 2809 Sylvan Avenue, Madison, Wisconsin, 53705.

The Driftings of a Bottle

Probably ever since bottles were invented, small boys have stuffed messages in them and sent them adrift in the oceans. But one such bottle must have a tale indeed to tell.

Explorer Scouts in Savannah, Georgia, made out a message some eight years ago, sealed it into a bottle and tossed it into the Atlantic Ocean off nearby Wassaw Island. Last fall a man walking the beach near Fort Myers, Florida, found the bottle with the message still intact.

It is only 230 miles from Savannah to Fort Myers. But the latter is on the Gulf of Mexico on Florida's West Coast. The finder of the bottle was confused as to how it came to be washed up there from Georgia and he asked the Department of Commerce's Environmental Science Services Administration to give him some ideas. The Gulf Stream and the oceanic currents flow in a clockwise direction so the authorities said there was no possibility that the bottle had merely drifted along the United States coast and around the tip of Florida into the Gulf of Mexico.

Instead, oceanographers said the bottle must have been picked up by the Gulf Stream and carried into the North Atlantic and then across the ocean to Spain. From there, they surmise, the Canary Current may have wafted it from Africa's bulge back across the Atlantic to the Yucatan Channel. Or it might have gone farther south along the African coast but eventually the Guinea Current would have sent it west again, probably somewhere near Brazil. Then it drifted north and into the Gulf of Mexico.

As a new papyrus boat heads into the Atlantic to discover whether it was possible for man centuries ago to drift with the currents from the Mediterranean to the Western Hemisphere, the little bottle from Georgia lends another clue

Realpolitik Has Easy Answers But They Have Seldom Worked

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

The minor-league Machiavellis are at it again. The other day in the Senate Claiborne Pell made his contribution to the Cambodian seance. A former foreign service officer, Pell, rejected trivialities and — in the great tradition of George Kennan — went to the heart of the matter. "I submit," he said, "that our national interest would best be served by a unified Vietnam even if under Communist rule, as it would then serve as a relatively firm barrier to Chinese expansion."

This is "realpolitik." Its advocates like to consider themselves tough-minded experts on the balance of power, chess masters on a global board. Unlike naive "moralists," their concern is with the big picture and they plan their moves in the perspective of centuries.

In the pre-democratic era (or today in non-democratic societies) this approach has some utility. In 1763, for example, a British minister suggested that, despite its defeat in the Seven Years War, France be allowed to retain Canada. His logic was simple and penetrating: as long as they have the French on their backs, the Americans would be dependent on Britain and all their clap-trap about autonomy would stop! A neat proposition, but fortunately one that was ignored.

Soviets in Vacuum

Similarly, in our time, the Soviet Union can operate its foreign policy pretty much in a vacuum. The 1939 Nazi-Soviet Pact was a classic example, and in 1945-46 it seems that Stalin much preferred a weak Nationalist regime in China to a potentially strong Maoist government. In the light of events over the last five years, the logic of this position hardly needs elaboration!

These examples, however, indicate one of the deficiencies in realpolitik — it seldom works. Machiavelli, after all, died broke and out of a job. Despite the best Russian efforts to buy him off, Hitler in June, 1941, turned east. And Mao gained control of mainland China. Which brings us to the first point in Senator Pell's speech: Does anyone seriously believe that, if Red China got effectively organized, a "unified Vietnam" would constitute a serious barrier to Chinese expansion?

a real moral question implicit in Senator Pell's statement. Without challenging the legitimacy of his position (which, as Eugene V. Rostow has indicated, is a complex problem), I would argue that those who employ it cannot engage in double-keeping. That is, they cannot apply one standard of evaluation to affairs in Southeast Asia and another to Europe or the Middle East.

In this spirit let us paraphrase the Senator's remarks: "Our national interest would best be served by a unified Middle East even if under Arab rule, as it would then serve as a relatively firm barrier to Russian expansion." It is interesting to note that the French foreign policy establishment, which shares Pell's view of Southeast Asia, is firmly — and consistently — behind precisely this approach to Israel and the Arabs.

If the Senator will accept this application of his position, my doubts will be ended. I will disagree, but at least we shall have the basis for a serious, intelligent argument. If he reserves realpolitik for only Vietnamese, however, a whole series of other questions arise. Perhaps he will be good enough to elaborate?

Hiroshima Blast Was an Adam Bomb

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A school-teacher was telling me the other night that some of her fourth-grade pupils refer to the bomb we dropped on Hiroshima as the "Adam bomb."

Since Adam was the first man, they reason analogically that this first of a new-type bomb should likewise be called "Adam." It makes a certain kind of linguistic and psychological sense; and, indeed, a good deal of folk

Drive With Pride, Is Best Advice of State Safety Expert

BY DEAN VAN GORDEN

MADISON — Fifty-six thousand four hundred deaths — two and a half million injuries and a 13 billion dollar economic loss nationally; 1,150 deaths — 55,000 injuries and a $250,000,000 economic loss to Wisconsin citizens.

Van Gorden

Giving no consideration to pain, suffering, loss of companionship, parental guidance and on and on for all unmeasurables, that is briefly the statistical annual traffic crash problem.

It is interesting to listen to, and read about, the various causes of crashes, and the solution to eliminate them, as offered by the various interest groups. "It's the vehicle," expounds one group. "It's the roadways," says another. "It's the nut behind the wheel," voices still another. Those who are sometimes referred to as highway safety specialists, professionals, technicians, etc., say, "Yes, yes, you are ALL correct! There is a multiplicity of causes and solutions."

Since enactment of the National Highway Safety Act of 1966, standards have been promulgated requiring the installation of various safety devices in vehicles such as dual braking systems, collapsible steering columns, safer windshields, safety belts, head restraints and recessed knobs and handles. All of the above contribute to a safer vehicle.

Restraints Coming

Certain to arrive on the scene in the near future are practical, passive restraint systems (impact activated air bags to cushion driver and passengers will likely be first to be perfected), alcohol interlock systems (devices to prevent operation of the vehicle by intoxicated drivers), and other innovations, as the scientists continue to apply themselves to the traffic crash problem.

Legislatures have provided programs intended to educate, guide, counsel and control the driver, namely driver education, examination and licensing, traffic codes and laws, traffic law enforcement, traffic courts, counseling and rehabilitation.

The roadway is being continually improved. Limited access highways, better lighting, break-away signs and light posts, safer guardrails, wider roads and shoulders, removal of trees and other obstructions, all contribute to safer movement of traffic.

Better traffic records, more efficient emergency medical services, identification and surveillance of high accident locations, motor vehicle inspections, debris hazard control and cleanup are still other programs designed to interface or contribute to the other countermeasures.

Broad Planning Required

Crash countermeasure programs require exhaustive planning, administration and evaluation to implement them effectively. Legislators, at all levels, pass laws and appropriate huge sums of tax dollars for implementation. Organizations at the federal, state, and local levels are developed and taxpayer and consumer costs rise.

It is interesting to note that, while sophisticated programs are developed and implemented across the nation, hundreds of thousands of drivers travel our highways as safe drivers. Many of them are traveling in vehicles that would not meet today's safety standards, over stretches of highways considered the most hazardous in the nation.

What makes these people safe drivers in potentially unsafe vehicles traveling on hazardous highways? Could the answer be good judgment, respect for the rights of fellow humans, acceptance of responsibility and those additional criteria that identify the mature, well-balanced human being?

During John Wyngaard's vacation, prominent figures in government and politics are writing guest columns for his daily Wisconsin Report column. Dean Van Gorden is the coordinator of highway safety programs in the state executive department.

I believe so!

Must Accept Responsibility

It is essential that each member of the motoring public be willing to accept his or her individual responsibility.

Until each driver, pedestrian, and passenger makes a personal commitment to set an example for others by keeping their vehicle in safe condition, fastening safety belts, respecting rights of others and driving with pride, thus reducing traffic crash problems voluntarily, it will be necessary for government and industry to continue expansion of existing, and development of new, highway safety measures.

I am confident that together, citizens, industry and government will solve the traffic crash problem. The question is, "What per cent or how large a role will each play?" Each citizen contributes to that decision every time he exercises his use privilege of the streets and highways.

Harris

And we took the Old English "brydguma" (meaning "bride-man") and transformed it into "bridegroom," because in the 15th and 16th Centuries "bride" referred to a person of either sex. "Groom" here has nothing to do with grooming.

Popular usage turned "holyhock" into "hollyhock" for a flower that came from the Holy Land and had no relation at all to holly. It also turned the French "jardin almond" into the "Jordan almond," even though it hasn't the remotest connection with Jordan — any more than the Jerusalem artichoke has to do with Jerusalem (it's a corruption of the Italian "pirasole," sunflower, which the artichoke resembles in leaf and stem.)

We make words mean what we want them to, regardless of their ancestry. "Garage," a fairly recent loan-word from French, originally meant "place for storing anything," not exclusively cars; and a "barn" formerly meant a "barley-place," and not a storage house for other kinds of grain and animals. The "Adam bomb" may linger longer in the language than those fourth-graders might imagine.

AAL, Coated Post Opening YMCA Wins

Perfect Patterns and Peerless Paint recorded their second straight wins in Big Four League summer basketball at the Appleton YMCA.

In the high school division, Continental League, Appleton Coated Paper beat The Post-Crescent, 60-53, and Aid Association for Lutherans topped Tuttle Press, 63-56. It was the first game for all teams.

Mark Lemons tossed in 24 points to pace Perfect Patterns past Appleton Structural Steel, 70-28. Chuck DeWall tallied 10 for the losers. Dave Emanuel's 14 points topped Peerless Paint, 43-31 victor over Evans Insurance.

Bob Olson tallied 14 points for Coated Paper, while Gary Groves led the losers with 13. Rick Kaepernick banked in 24 for Tuttle Press, but Dave Schmiedermayer's 11 led a balanced AAL attack.

Council Won't Permit Clay's Exhibition Bouts

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Charleston County Council said Tuesday that it won't permit former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay—now Muhammad Ali—to fight in its 4,000-seat County Hall. Promoter Reggie Barrett said his attorneys would seek an injunction to prevent the council from stopping the exhibition. Clay is scheduled to spar in two three-round matches Thursday night.

Giants' Bruce Maher Announces Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — Defensive back Bruce Maher of the New York Giants, a 10-year National Football League veteran, announced his retirement Tuesday.

Maher, 32, who came to the Giants in a trade with Detroit in 1968, said he was quitting to "devote full energies to personal interests in Detroit."

Barrett said the fight might take place at a local speedway that seats about 2,000 in bleachers. The promoter added that in any case the fight definitely will be held.

That's a long way from the last time Muhammad fought—November 1967 before a packed house in New York's Madison Square Garden, where he knocked out Zora Folley of Phoenix in the seventh round.

Fielded Questions And it seemed like a far different fighter Tuesday night as the 28-year-old former champ fielded questions in a telephone interview—no longer full of im-ericks, innuendos and spirited predictions about the outcome of matches and future prospects.

After 2½ years of court battles on his draft status, a marriage gone sour, and no action in the ring, he said he was "just doing what the promoters tell me to do."

He is to receive expenses only for the exhibition, with proceeds that he had "brought a little ex-benefitting underprivileged ercise equipment along with boys."

Clay's promoter said the County Council's action to block the appearance was "typical bigotry that exists in the South and in Charleston."

Meanwhile, Clay is just bidding his time until Thursday night. He said he might "run about three miles" this afternoon and that he had "brought a little exercise equipment along with me."

Clay said he is about 20 pounds over his fighting weight and that he now weighs about 230. He spent Tuesday going "out into the streets and into the ghettos and saw the children. I walked through the back streets and met all my fans—about 2,000 of them."

Striking Rail Workers Ordered Back on Job

Emergency Board Formed on Fireman Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, acting after the industry threatened to stop the nation's trains if a union kept striking three key lines, has ordered railroad workers back to their jobs for 60 days while an emergency board seeks to settle a long-running dispute.

Just after the President moved to avert a national rail crisis Tuesday night by resorting to his final remedy under the Railway Labor Act, the Labor Department reported it was told the thousands of striking United Transportation Union members would go to work again as soon as possible.

The department said the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry group represented more than 125 railroads, rescinded its consideration of a recommendation of the National Mediation Board and Secretary of Labor James W. Hodgson after a day in which passenger and freight trains were stopped or slowed in at least 16 states.

The UTU called the strike suddenly Tuesday after charging the lines with refusing to bargain in good faith over the use of firemen on diesel engines.

Nixon's decision came on the recommendation of the National Mediation Board and Secretary of Labor James W. Hodgson after a day in which passenger and freight trains were stopped or slowed in at least 16 states.

Park Dedicated at Medina

In Remembrance of Thomas Armitage

BY HENRY SIMON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MEDINA — A flag flew at half staff here for 15 minutes Tuesday evening.

Then it was raised to full staff, lowered and presented to Mrs. Rodney Armitage as a park was dedicated in honor of her son Thomas, first Medina serviceman to die in the Vietnam war.

"In remembrance of Thomas Armitage we hereby dedicate this park," a speaker said.

"This park is enshrined for those with whom Thomas Armitage lived and for whom he died," a priest added.

"In memoriam of Pfc. Thomas Leon Armitage 2438951 Killed in Action. Feb. 12, 1969. Vietnam. For Love of God and Country," the plaque read.

Countryside Nearby

Birds chirped in the brush across Outagamie Trunk M. The countryside never is far away in this unincorporated community about 10 miles east of Appleton.

A relative of the soldier

clenched her lips tightly, trying hard not to cry.

"I knew him since he was just a little boy," recalled Elmer Thorson, president of the Dale-Medina - Readfield Lions Club. The group arranged the ceremony and provided the plaque and stand.

Many others in the crowd knew Tom Armitage, too.

He had grown up among them, graduating from New London High School in 1967 and enlisting in the Marine Corps.

Perhaps half of this community of about 175 persons were gathered to listen to the words about the boy and man they had known.

"Thomas Armitage gave the last full measure of devotion to the principles of liberty and devotion," the Rev. Martin H. Vosbeek said.

Cars roared by on U.S. 10, slowing for the speed zone but probably not all the way down to 35 m.p.h.

Vietnam Visit Provides 'Proof' of Everyone's Views

In Hanoi as well as in Saigon, a visiting American can find "proof" of almost anything he wants to believe about the war.

With comparable fervor of emotion and the same assurance that time is on the speaker's side, warring leaders in North and South Vietnam have told me alike that they see signs in 1970 of ultimate victory despite the war's painful course.

In this little cockpit of Asia, after a generation of struggle and five years of major American participation in combat, contradictions still thicken the fog of war.

Last February in Hanoi, North Vietnam's Foreign Minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, gave me the Communists' interpretation of current events:

The South Vietnamese masses want independence above all else—a country from which all foreign military forces have retreated—and they will continue their patriotic self-sacrifice until this is achieved.

Protracted War

Because the United States is arming a huge Vietnamese army under a small clique of generals in Saigon, the war will be protracted. But in the end, national liberation forces will prevail, a few generals may flee to their secret fortresses in Switzerland, and South Vietnam will arise an independent, neutral state living in peace.

That is Hanoi's version.

For the Saigon government's view, Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lan is an able spokesman, dispensing with any interpreter and speaking directly in English.

General Lam commands I Corps Tactical Zone, two infan-

Medals for Valor

He is five years younger than President Nguyen Van Thieu, reached the rank of lieutenant general about five years later than Thieu. He was born within 20 miles of the Ben Hai River, the present dividing line between North and South Vietnam. He has many medals for valor.

"Why do our people continue to fight? Because they can't stand to live under Communist rule," said Lam.

"We know that if we like to be free, we must fight."

"I have 150,000 troops and thousands of territorial platoons, the Popular Forces, which are scattered through I Corps."

"Not one of my platoons has gone to the hills. Not one has deserted."

"The Communists say they will continue to fight 10 more years. We will fight longer—and win."

No Doubters

Traveling from the chemically poisoned meadows of the Demilitarized Zone to the green wonderland of the Mekong Delta, I met no doubters in the South Vietnamese officer corps. In North Vietnam, the troops I saw of the People's Army looked smartly trained and appeared to be provided with the best of the nation's resources.

In South Vietnam, the 18 months since the Americans' policy of Vietnamization started have been good for the South Vietnamese Army (ARVN).

A Good fortune has deluged ARVN with military hardware from American reserves, and financed an increase of 100 percent in regular troops, with American grants.

There's no mistaking the elan of the South Vietnamese officer corps at this time.

It is not among South Vietnamese leaders but among some American officials, in private remarks and casual hints, that a visitor finds doubts about the ultimate outcome.

Morale Problem

North Vietnamese leaders do not have the problem of morale among a host of foreign advisers, because they are on their own. The confidence and determination in North Vietnam are not displayed in an echo chamber of foreign doubts.

You ask, "Is pacification succeeding?" and again find "proof" of many answers. U.S. and ARVN briefings say it is. Ninety per cent of South Vietnamese hamlets are now government-secure, according to official statistics.

However an American official concedes that some of the hamlets aren't in their old locations, which were in free-fire zones. They're bunched next to cities and next to the sea.

This is why, flying 2,500 miles in helicopters and light planes, you note that much, perhaps two-thirds, of the country looks deserted. Guerrillas may roam in parts of it by night. Not even a water buffalo can be seen grazing in daylight.

Vietnamese Proverb

Will the South Vietnamese remain loyal to Saigon's friendship with the United States after an American military withdrawal? An American quotes a Vietnamese proverb in an attempt at an answer:

"If you have enough money, you can buy angels."

From the perspective of years of American military operations, what do South Vietnamese think of the United States' effort in their behalf? A strongly armed, the home-front public opinion poll, conducted with U.S. government funds by Vietnamese employees, shows widespread appreciation. Then supreme in Southeast Asia?

you hear another Vietnamese proverb quoted by an American:

"If you bring home elephants, they will trample the graves of your ancestors."

Why are any Americans in South Vietnam uncertain about the future, since ARVN is being States' effort in their behalf? A strongly armed, the home-front public opinion poll, conducted with U.S. government funds by Vietnamese employees, shows widespread appreciation. Then supreme in Southeast Asia?

Tiger Cage Story Coverup Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A staff aide charges the select whitewash of a snow job," Harkin said.

Montgomery said that charge was "ridiculous and irresponsible." The committee, he went on, picked its own investigation spots, in many cases giving less than 75 minutes notice before arriving.

Harkin said more than 200 men, crammed three to five in 36 5-by-8-foot tiger pits in one building, were unable to stand because they had been there so long. He said nearly 200 women were kept in tiger cages in another building. Each cage had a wood bucket for a toilet.

Harkin's description was generally backed by the two congressmen who visited the prison, Reps. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., and Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif.

A spokesman at the U.S. Embassy in Saigon said American authorities have known about the prison conditions but added, "Of course the control of this system rests with the ministry of interior of the Vietnamese government."

The spokesman said Vietnamese authorities say they don't have any choice but to have people in that place.

92 Wounded in 3 Days of Race Unrest

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — visitors and Springwood Avenue, main street of the Negro district, was a shambles. There were no big fires Tuesday. Most stores were burned and looted Negro attack and to enforce a Monday curfew.

Fourteen wounded were hospitalized and hospital authorities listed 92 gunshot wounds treated during three days of racial trouble in this seashore resort community.

State Police said their detectives were investigating whether trooper shots caused the wounds. State Police said they fired only warning shots.

State Police said today they would stay on in Asbury Park as long as needed. A state police spokesman said 150 troopers were on duty, some on patrol and others on standby. He said a curfew imposed Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. was lifted at 6 a.m.

However black leaders said today they would ask that the numbers of state troopers be reduced immediately to ease tensions.

Most of the wounds Tuesday came during one battle in which an estimated 1,000 Negroes launched volleys of rocks, bottles and firebombs at troopers.

City officials, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting with Negro leaders to discuss demands for improvements in housing, law enforcement and employment.

The city's Negro police chief, Thomas Smith, said if calm prevailed, he might recommend withdrawal of some outside policemen, one of the demands made by Negro leaders Tuesday.

Mayor Joseph Martinez said, "The beach front, thank goodness, hasn't been affected."

But the boardwalk was empty of its usual throng of summer

Police estimated damage at tracks from the Negro sector well over $1 million.

Violence reached the main business district about 5 p.m. when the crowd moved into the Negro sector and began breaking windows and looting.

Street Extension Mapping Defeated in New London

Property Owners Question Council Prerogative

NEW LONDON — Placing of the proposed extension of McKinley Street on the city map was defeated by a five-to-four vote of the City Council Tuesday night.

"Before we make this major step, we should have the good will of the people," Ald. Walter Fredericks said. "I just don't think we're prepared to make such a decision."

A public hearing on the proposed street had been held in March and most of the property owners had voiced their protest at that time.

Wants Better Study

At the time the council had indicated that it wanted more time to make a better study of the roadway. One of the property owners said apparently no attempt had been made to do this study.

Many property owners said that they did not object to the idea of the road but questioned the council's right to put the road on the map when it is apparent the street will not be built in the next 10 years.

Property owner Forrest Peebles told the council he felt it could not take such action. He told aldermen that he felt they should have contacted the property owners and negotiated with them before taking their action.

City Atty. O. W. Capener told the audience and council that the state law allowed the council to take any action it considered necessary for the benefit of the majority.

He added that just as this law might seem unfair to the property owners, every law jeopardizes some of the individual's rights.

"Perfectly Legal"

He told aldermen he felt any action they wanted to take was perfectly legal.

When some residents protested having their position jeopardized, Mayor S. W. Krostue told them they were "privileged to their opinion."

Mrs. Harold Markman asked the council to consider the affect changing the traffic route would have on merchants. She noted that in most Wisconsin cities the businesses were trying to get some of the tourists trade.

She said she felt the routing of traffic down Shiocton Street would take traffic away from the business section.

Mrs. K. B. Hammerberg noted that she and her husband had been trying to sell a piece of business property they owned long before the first hearing was held on the street.

Customers Lost

She informed the council that two customers had lost interest in the purchase during the time the council was holding hearings on the proposed street.

She said that she was surprised to learn that councilmen felt they could tell the property owner after paying taxes 25 to 30 years that they were just taking over his land and that it was now worthless.

Peebles informed the council members that he felt they would find it harder to condemn the properties than they thought. He also stated that he couldn't see the council approving the street if it didn't know when it was going to build it or how much it was going to cost.

Ald. Jerome Freiburger, Clarence Bauernfeind, Don Allen, and Fred Nowak voted in favor of placing the street on the map. Ald. Isabel Schoenrock, Gib Kroll, Elmer Hebbe, George Wochinski and Fredericks voted against the proposal.

To Prepare Another Site

Waupaca Sets New City Dump Hours

WAUPACA — New hours for prepare to move to the new city dump, to become effective next Wednesday, July 15.

The new hours were proposed by the City Plan Commission. By regulating the hours for residents to make their deposits at the site, it is hoped that conditions there will improve.

Site Supervised

Supervisor Bob Knight will supervise the unloading of bundles and bags in a designated area each day and then properly cover the rubbish and garbage at the close of the day. The state requires that it be covered with six inches of suitable compactible material each day.

The question of making the present site meet state requirements for permanent licensing was discussed at length by the council. The principle objection was the expenditure of $16,300 to plant a live green screen along County Trunk K and the cemetery, build a fence around the area and construct an all-weather road.

The Plan Commission also had recommended that the city decided to prepare to move to the new site, located north of the city, by July, 1971. However, this decision was far from unanimous — it passed on a 5-4 vote only after lengthy discussion and stiff opposition.

The dump will be closed on Sundays and one weekday, to be determined later this week. Hours will be from 9 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 5 p.m. on the designated weekdays and from 7 to 10 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturdays.

More Information

He also said that a letter from the Department of Natural Resources, Environmental Control Division, indicated that further information would be needed before final approval could be given to the new site.

The possibility of joining with the towns of Dayton, Farmington and Lind in the use of their new proposed 35-acre landfill operation near Little Hope was entered by Ald. Thomas Taber (1st).

"I move that the matter be tabled until such time as we can talk with the towns and with the Waupaca Council of Governments about whether or not we can join together in one landfill operation," Ald. Waldemar Johnson (2nd) proposed.

Iver Oerter, director of public works, told the council that he had talked with the towns in 1966 about such a possibility but received no encouragement.

"Only the Town of Waupaca was interested and it now uses our city dump and pays $100 per month."

Join with Towns

Huntton told the council that he felt the towns of Dayton, Farmington and Lind would be glad to have the City of Waupaca join them in their new landfill operation.

"Why in hell do we have a three-day Iowa event was a 'sex, alcohol and drug festival' and that the community will not make

In a vote to table the recommendation, Aldermen Looker, Huntton, Taber and Waldemar Johnson voted in favor and Aldermen Stanley Salter (5th), La Vern Hanke (5th), Everett Roloff (3rd), Jungers, and Rob Bergman (4th) voted in opposition.

Plans Now

"I believe the council should make plans tomorrow to move the dump site where it should be," Hanke interjected. "The present site is on a public access and it would take 10 to 15 years to grow a green screen to close it from public view. The new site is ideal," he noted.

The present site area can be developed into desirable lots, bringing revenue into the city, and the city could live up to its agreement with the Wisconsin Highway Commission to provide a connecting street from County Trunk K and the U S 10 intersection, Hanke continued.

After it was voted to move to the new landfill site by July 1, 1971, Mayor Edward Kramer said, "Discussion with WACOG on the possibility of joining with outlying towns in a landfill operation is not a dead issue."

Airport Committee

In other action, the mayor appointed Clyde Weatherbee, Don Brunner and James Stephens to an airport committee, which will handle all airport affairs and make up its budget, subject to council approval.

The State Department of Transportation has said that, according to the terms of the west boundary easement of the airport, no public road or access road to residential property can be permitted on the easement, the mayor reported.

This matter was considered several weeks ago when it was learned that the Town of Waupaca had an on-site hearing, which did grant rezoning of land recommendation, after they have given it thorough study."

arm airport for construction of a four-lane road from U. S. 10 to the Waupaca River.

Kramer named Aldermen Huntton, Johnson and Salter to the Board of Review which meets at 10 a.m. Monday, July 13. Kramer and City Treasurer Harriet Ward also are members of the board.

Obey Will Run For Re-election To Congress

Representative From Seventh District To Seek First Full Term

U. S. Rep. David Obey, Wausau, announced today that he will run for re-election as Wisconsin's Seventh District Congressman.

Obey, who at 31 is the nation's youngest congressman, was elected to the House in April, 1969, in a special election to fill the vacancy created when Melvin Laird was appointed Secretary of Defense.

Before going to Congress, Obey served four terms in the State Assembly, including the last two terms as Assistant Minority Floor Leader.

In Congress, his first committee assignment was to the Public Works Committee but, last November, he was named the only first-term member of the House Committee on Appropriations and its Subcommittee on the Interior.

First Term

Obey said he concentrated his first legislative efforts in the fields of environmental protection, health care, tax reform and preservation of the family farm. He backed the municipal sewerage cleanup budget increase and the banning of pesticides, and co-authored bills to hike social security benefits and establish a Council on Environmental Quality in the President's office.

As an appropriations committee, he sought cuts in the SST, space program and the ABM.

Obey was first elected to office in 1962 as an assemblyman. He was on the Wisconsin Medicare Task Force, named the nation's outstanding legislator in the field of education by the rural division of the National Education Association and was vice chairman of the Joint Finance Committee.

Experience Cited

In announcing, Obey said, "In a few months, I'll be closing out my first term. I'm sure people are aware that breaking into the Congress in modern isn't easy."

"But, two things have made it easier than I expected: The experience gained in my four terms in the State Legislature and the patience shown by so many during those early days when we were trying to turn an empty office with empty files into a working office for the benefit of the Seventh District."

I've tried to do my best to represent the people of the Seventh District with the vigor, conviction and candor which I think they have a right to expect."

He called the challenge in the 1970s great, and urged that efforts be directed to cleaning up the environment, revitalizing urban and rural America and providing better care for the mentally ill and the retarded.

Girl Burned by Charcoal Fire

CHILTON — Michele Jodar, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jodar of S. State Street is in satisfactory condition today suffering from burns she received while lighting a charcoal grill.

According to the girl's mother, Michele mistakenly used lawn mower gas instead of charcoal lighter fluid. The fire set her hair on fire, which caused burns on her face and arm.

Michele was taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital by her parents and is confined there.

Chilton Will Destroy All Diseased Elm Trees in City

Property Owners Responsible For Removal From Premises

CHILTON — The city will start its clean-up of destroying all elm trees in the city that are diseased, it was learned Tuesday night at the regular council meeting.

Authorization was given to Walter Muehl, Director of Public Works to notify all property owners in the city who have diseased elm trees to have them destroyed. Muehl said that there are 62 diseased trees in the city and that 12 of them belong to the city. The others are privately owned.

A trailer ordinance prepared by City Attorney William Engler, Jr. and Walter Muehl, was given to councilmen to study before it comes before the planning commission on Thursday evening.

Engler said that the ordinance was modeled somewhat after the Fox Valley Council of Governments with standards recommended by the city planners in the comprehensive plan of the city. Engler said the ordinance would give the city comprehensive control over the trailer courts in the city.

Signal Light

Authorization was given for the installation of a new signal light in downtown Chilton. The light had been damaged by a truck and cost will be partially paid by the trucking company.

A complete study of the insurance coverage of the city will be made at the next meeting with the insurance carrier, before policies are renewed in August.

Walter Muehl reported that since the traffic counter has been placed on the State Street bridge on June 24, cars counted ranged from 1437 to a high of 2814 on one day. Width of the bridge span was not authorized; however, councilmen felt a 40 foot span would be sufficient. Costs will be estimated as soon as width is determined. Muehl noted that the bridge problem should be taken care of before the winter.

Street Work

Plans and specifications also were ordered for the widening and resurfacing of East Grand Street from Main to North Madison, which is scheduled for next year.

A request for curb and gutter and resurfacing was also made by property owners on Connel, Bonk and E. Brooklyn Streets. This work could possibly be done this year.

The State Department of Transportation will be contacted by the city clerk to request a reduction of speed to 25 miles per hour from Lehner to Breed Streets and to 35 miles per hour from Breed to North Madison.

Councilmen felt that with the increase of business in the area speed reduction is necessary. The present speed is 50 miles per hour from Breed to North Madison to the city limits.

Re-elected to the library board for another three year term were Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Chester Courtice.

Clintonville Guard Will Reunite After 9 Years

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Unit of the National Guard, which was on duty in the State of Washington nine years ago, will hold a reunion at Veterans Memorial Building Aug. 1.

There were 176 invitations sent to members. The reservation deadline is July 11.

New London Lines

Sewer Troubles Spark Campaign

NEW LONDON — Residents who use city water and sewer facilities soon will receive postcards informing them what they can do to help prevent some of the sewer problems that have occurred recently.

The City Council authorized the move.

Mayor S. W. Krostue told the council he had been called out again Friday to help unplug one of the sanitary sewers.

When the sewer was opened, the men found the plastic liner from a disposable diaper had plugged the line. Krostue noted that this was a common occurrence. He said the plastic part of the diaper will never break down and always will be a problem.

Neighbors Suffer

He noted that the people who put the products in the sewer are usually not the ones who end up with the sewer problem, but that their neighbor suffers for their action.

He said that the cards would be an appeal to all sewer users to help their neighbors and themselves.

The card requests that persons not place diapers, sanitary napkins, paper towels, excessive products, rubber balls, toys or coffee grounds in the sewer system. It also reminds the home owner to use a lot of water when using garbage disposals.

Signs on Displays

There also is a possibility that the city will ask merchants to post a sign near displays of products which are causing some of the common problems with the lines.

Most of the problems come from synthetics which do not break down in water. Some of the items mentioned actually swell and cause a bigger problem.

The problem of these items in the sewer lines becomes most noticeable after a heavy rainstorm when sewers start backing up throughout the city.

"Law in Own Hands"

Object of the study should be possible laws which can be written in the 1971 session to limit and control rock festivals in the future, he said.

And State Rep. Francis Byers of Marion, in whose district the Iowa festival took place, said that residents of that community could "take the law in their own hands" if attempts are made to have another rock festival there.

The attacks came on the same day that Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren, also a Republican seeking re-election, told a sheriff's convention that his office is drafting model ordinances and zoning codes to limit and control such events.

Froehlich said activities at the festivals are "an affront to the public morals, an impeding of effective law enforcement, and a danger to the public in general."

He ordered State Rep. Bernard Lewison, R-Viroqua, head of the State Affairs Committee, to begin the investigation to determine what legal steps can be taken to regulate the festivals.

Various Areas

The committee should look into areas of health and public safety hazards, the sale and distribution of illicit drugs and narcotics and the entire area of law enforcement, including responsibilities of state and local lawmen. Froehlich said

The attorney general should be asked for help in drafting proposed legislation for the 1971 session to limit and control such

Citizens Petition

Iola Strives to Prevent Fest

IOLA — Petitions are being circulated in the Town of Iola giving citizens the proper and legal method of expressing their disapproval of the People's Fair held there 10 days ago and to prevent another announced for Aug. 14, 15 and 16.

These are being circulated by Fred Green and distributed by milk haulers to residents. They are being called in the week of July 13.

Green and other Town of Iola residents feel that their plea to the governor, attorney general, and their congressman and representative in the Assembly were not given sufficient consideration before the People's Fair acts, nudity, destruction of private property and essential elements of the ecology, and the threat of violence.

There is strong feeling among many of the town's taxpayers that a concerted effort must be made to prevent a life-style not compatible with the future.

Clintonville Offers To Transfer Dam To DNR's Control

CLINTONVILLE — A motion offering to transfer water rights and ownership of the dam on the Pigeon River to the Department of Natural Resources was passed by the City Council here Tuesday night.

City Clerk Lloyd Eggleston previously had written to the department with the offer, and the formal request will be made to the secretary of the DNR.

Dates for two public hearings on rezoning of properties were set following acceptance of recommendations from the Planning Commission.

A hearing will be held 8 p.m. August 4 at city hall on rezoning the property on N. Twelfth Street to allow construction of the 61-unit apartment building development for the low-income elderly.

Mobile Homes
Another hearing at 8:15 p.m. August 4, will consider zoning approximately nine acres of city-owned property on Seventh Street for a mobile home court. The area would provide room for about 60 units.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz included in the record the Department of Revenue's denial of a property owners petition for reassessment in the city. Sinkewicz said that a review of building permits for remodeling and furnace installations might be required to assist the assessor.

Depot Repair Slated In Kaukauna After Damage by Derailment

KAUKAUNA — Plans are under way by the Chicago and North Western Railway to repair the north side depot, damaged last week when a derailed car tipped onto the building.

The 22-year-old depot, used mainly for storage, was empty at the time of the accident. A wall was knocked out on the south side of the building.

One youth was sent to jail and a second was fined as a result of an altercation at Pierce Park July 2.

Dennis Duncan, 20, 640 Broad St., Menasha, pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, for which he was fined $35, and resisting arrest, for which he was sentenced to 30 days in jail under Huber law. Vince Dalton, 28, 342 Water St., Menasha, charged only with disorderly conduct, was fined $50 and costs after he pleaded guilty.

Appleton police said the two men were fighting. Dalton became abusive and threw his wallet to the ground when asked for identification, and Duncan, after refusing to show identification, began struggling with police. He admitted he had been drinking.

"As long as I'm on this bench, I'm going to insist on respect for the officers," Outagamie County acting Judge Gustave J. Keller told Duncan in pronouncing sentence.

Michael W. Hayes, 6, 314 S. Victoria St. was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday afternoon after the bike he was riding struck an auto on Douglas Street, just south of Second Street.

The boy complained of a back injury. Appleton police said that Joseph M. Dashner, 42, 349 S. Grace Bay Road, Neenah, was southbound on Douglas when the boy darted into his right front fender from a driveway.

Missing from the vehicle was an electric welder valued at $350, assorted wrenches valued at $110, a shot gun and radio on which no value estimate was made. The car was taken from in front of a tavern on Dodge Street.

KAUKAUNA — Carol Burnell, 302½ Fourth St., reported to police the theft of about $20 from her apartment while she was away Saturday evening. Entry was gained by forcing a rear door.

KAUKAUNA — Gregory Wheeler, 908 Combined Locks road, reported his home entered but nothing missing Saturday evening. Entry was gained by forcing a garage door and breaking a window.

Police said the Dain car was westbound on State 76, two miles east of here, when it reportedly was forced off the road by an eastbound vehicle. The car went through a ditch and front yard before striking a pickup truck owned by Adam Guyette and a car owned by Theodore Guyette, both of route 1, Bear Creek. The Dain car then struck a tree. School Board Interviews

6 Architects

Plans Begin for New North-Central Elementary Building

Appleton Board of Education members listened for hours Monday night as six architectural firms discussed their philosophies and operations in their efforts to be selected to design a new north-central elementary school, scheduled for opening in September, 1972.

The board took no action, but indicated it may select one within two weeks. It has started the interviewing process early so that the 1,000-student school can be opened in time for the 1972 fall term.

The schedule is to have plans completed early next year so construction can start as soon as possible. The board began seeking architects recently after the city came to terms with Percy Menning, Appleton, to purchase the 5.23 acre parcel next to Einstein Junior High, a piece of land the city has been seeking for five years.

The architectural firms making presentations were Schutte-Mochon, Inc., Sauter Seaborn Architects, Ltd., and George G. Architects, Ltd., and Narovec and Associates, Inc., those in the northern part of the all of Appleton, and Shattuck, district.

Kaukauna's Sewers Are Being Televised

KAUKAUNA — Crews of the Polaroid camera. A counter, American Pipe Services Co., attached to the camera cable, enables crews to know how far the process of televising sanitary sewers in the city to point.

permit City Engineer Robert Natrop and city officials to set up a program for sewer replacement projects.

This is the second year the firm has been working for the city. Cost of this year's work will be $10,000. The sewer pipes are televised with a five-inch diameter camera pulled by a steel cable and winch. The camera trails its own coaxial cable behind it, connected to the receiver for viewing.

A television screen in a van monitors the picture. As a crack or leak appears, the camera stops and the scene is recorded by a videotape recorder and a receiving station. The schedule is to have plans completed early next year so construction can start as soon as possible. The board began seeking architects recently after the city came to terms with Percy Menning, Appleton, to purchase the 5.23 acre parcel next to Einstein Junior High, a piece of land the city has been seeking for five years.

The new school is expected to take the overload off several elementary schools, especially those in the northern part of the city.

Attending the clinic are Corine Kilsdonk, Celeste Meyer, Cheryl Marsceau, Leda Pynenberg, Mary Lee Scherer, and Cindy Schmidt.

Middle Income Families Need Student Loans

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As you read this column, the American Bankers Association is querying banks across the nation on how many low-cost federal-state guaranteed student loans they'll make this coming school year. No details are as yet available, but it's a certainty that on a large scale banks going to students in families earning over $9,000 and only 10 per cent to students in families earning over $15,000. Now, to make it even worse, President Nixon has recommended the elimination of any federal college loan interest subsidies for a student in an over-$10,000 family — although others in his administration have been urging congress to ease this harsh cutoff point. While Nixon's plan to rechannel funds to lower-income students has a laudable goal, it utterly ignores the equally desperate plight of the middle-income family trying to send more than one child through college. That's why I report with satisfaction one insider's judgment that "hostility is so great in congress that no action on the plan is likely."

The likelihood also is that congress will vote the establishment of a National Student Loan Association, which would raise money by selling government-guaranteed obligations at competitive interest rates in the open market. "Sallie Mae" would then use these funds to buy student loans from private lenders and thereby would provide the lenders with more money to make more loans. This is an urgently needed improvement and it makes sense in today's tight loan market. Get behind it now.

Porter

will be confessing big cutbacks, and in many cases complete abandonment of this college loan program.

Also this day (July 8), spokesmen for college and state student financial aid officers are testifying before the House Special Subcommittee on Education, chaired by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore. They are reporting a dire financial crisis for students from coast to coast.

July is the month in which banks and other lending institutions begin to accept applications for student loans under the enormously successful federal-state guaranteed loan program. And this year, the outlook is grim, particularly for the student of a family in the $7,500 to $15,000 income bracket.

Middle Income Hurt

Even before you start to get this bad news, you — the middle income parents — already are in a bitter squeeze of inflation and soaring taxes. Your teenage children already have been rebuffed in huge numbers in this year's tight summer job market. The value of your nestegg of stocks and bonds — carefully accumulated in order to help put your youngsters through college — already has been shockingly diminished.

Today, if your college-age child is an A student, he'll almost surely qualify for a generous scholarship or low-cost loan. If your family income totals less than $7,500 a year, your child's chances of getting college financial help also are excellent.

But, if your child is only average and if your family income is in the $7,500 to $15,000 bracket, his chances of getting a meaningful scholarship or loan are meagre. You are, as Mrs. Green says, the "forgotten majority." Specifically:

— Two out of three low-cost, federally-subsidized college loans under the National Defense Education Act of 1958 are going to students from families earning less than $7,500 a year.

Work-Study Jobs

— Three out of four federally-backed work-study jobs are going to students whose families are in this income bracket.

— A full 85 per cent of Federal Equal Opportunity Scholarship grants are going to students in the under-$7,500 group.

— Even in the federally-backed guaranteed student loan program — designed to help the middle-income family — only 29 per cent of the loan funds are

Put Pressure On

What's the prospect, then? If you, the parents and students needing this superb college loan assistance, put on the pressure you can and should, the probability is congress will extend the loan program and will continue to include middle income families.

Ease Asked on Pollution Halt

Scott Paper Ordered To Reduce Discharge, Seek Quota Change

MADISON (AP) — A Scott Paper Co. spokesman asked the Wisconsin Natural Resources Department last week to ease a pollution abatement order involving the firm's Marinette paper mill.

The state has told Scott to reduce the daily discharge of oxygen-demanding substances into the Menominee River to 6,000 pounds.

Nicholas Laridieri of Trenton, N.J., the company's manager of air and water resources, said pulp operations at the Marinette mill might have to be stopped if the requirement must be met. He asked that the firm be allowed to discharge 12,000 pounds of the oxygen-demanding substances per day.

Laridieri said it would cost $4.5 million to remove the more than 91 per cent of the substances, as requested by the state. The small Marinette mill would not justify that cost, he said.

Laridieri said a removal of 80 per cent of the substances, at a cost of between $3 and $3.5 million, would be more favorable.

The alternative would be to stop making pulp at Marinette, he said, meaning that 45 persons earning about $385,000 a year would lose their jobs.

Laridieri said a shutdown would also mean a loss to the area of $1 million spent for wood, $55,000 in local taxes and some $400,000 in other purchases.

A Natural Resources Department attorney, Edward Main, argued at a hearing on the abatement order that profit or loss was not a matter to be considered under the state water quality act.

Conglomerate Bank Ownership Bill Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A heavily lobbied bill to regulate business conglomerates whose holdings include a major bank is heading toward an almost certain floor fight in the Senate. Sen. Wallace Bennett of Utah, ranking Republican on the Banking and Currency Committee that reported out the bill Tuesday, said insurance, travel, computer and accounting interests put up a stiff fight to have the panel retain House restrictions on conglomerate activities. The measure requires holding companies owning a bank to unload subsidiaries if, in the opinion of the Federal Reserve

Board, these interests were involved in activities too closely related to banking. The bill calls for divestiture in five years, although allowing the board to extend this another five years. Holding companies would be allowed to retain any acquisition they owned on March 24, 1970, or one on which they had made a binding commitment to acquire. The House version would have changed that date to May 9, 1956, which Bennett said, "would have killed everybody who had been legitimately going along."

Bank. This provision has allowed conglomerates to branch into banking-related fields to the extent that 40 per cent of all commercial bank deposits are controlled by 300 holding companies. The Senate bill, Bennett explained, allows banks to offer related services—such as travel agency arrangements—but prohibits them from requiring the use of such service as a condition for obtaining a loan. Bennett said lobbyists made an effort to soften the impact of legislation on particular companies or grant them an exemption. He had no estimate of how many banks might benefit. "The most obvious example of an exception," he said, "would be the Hershey, Pa., bank which belongs to the Hershey trust which is owned by the Hershey Chocolate company—which actually owns the whole town. The bill would have forced them to get rid of the bank. But who would want to go into Hershey and operate a bank in that situation?" he asked. Bennett said the list of specific bank-related activities barred by the House was written into the bill during floor debate. "If the lobbyists try this again, there'll be a good scrap," he said.

Northwest Airline Clerical Workers Go Out on Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A national strike by clerical workers of Northwest Airlines began at 1 a.m. today, despite the company's offer of a 33.4 per cent pay hike over three years.

The strike involved 138 employees in Wisconsin, including 116 in Milwaukee and 22 in Madison. An airline spokesman said Northwest would maintain its service and there was no indication of any immediate disruption although picket lines had been established.

The Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC), represents some 3,460 workers, or more than 25 per cent of Northwest's employees.

Northwest had attempted to prevent the strike by putting in effect its latest contract offer, which union negotiators had rejected.

Portuguese Patch Differences Over Vatican Audience

LISBON (AP) — Portuguese Premier Marcello Caetano indicated Tuesday night that Ambassador Eduardo Brazao would return soon to his post at the Vatican as a result of the Vatican's explanation for Pope Paul's recent meeting with three African rebels against Portuguese colonial rule.

Caetano said a note from the Vatican has reduced the dispute to its "proper proportion." The note said brief audience a week ago had no political significance whatsoever.

The note also said the Pontiff spoke to the rebel leaders "as Catholics and Christians," not as terrorists, and encouraged them to use peaceful means. Caetano called his ambassador home last weekend to underline his government's anger.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and party reformers have made clear that Democrats in every state will have to adopt the sweeping recommendations of the McGovern Commission in picking 1972 national convention delegates. A meeting between O'Brien and commission leaders Tuesday appears to have eased fears that delegate selection reforms might be balked.

The concern was over a separate, special panel created by the National Committee to deal with convention rules and related matters. Unit Rule But O'Brien told reporters after Tuesday's session the other group, heavily weighted with party regulars, would neither interpret the McGovern guidelines nor make recommendations to the 1972 Credentials Committee. Party leaders had indicated earlier it might deal with both.

Designed to make party delegate selection procedures more democratic, the McGovern recommendations range from abolition of the unit rule to a requirement that the number of women, Democrats under 30 and minority group members in each delegation reflect roughly their share of the state's population. When O'Brien was asked Tuesday if the special panel might make recommendations on the guidelines in the 1972 Credentials Committee, he replied: "I would not see any recommendations being made because the guidelines for the ad hoc committee are very clear to help in the implementation" of the McGovern proposals. McGovern said, "Presumably the Credentials Committee would turn to us if they have any question of interpretation." O'Brien agreed.

All State Democratic Parties Must Make Reforms, O'Brien Declares

Cooper-Church Apt To Lose in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The he says is his constitutional power to protect U.S. troops; issued Cooper-Church amendment and authority to pay the bill for rent to curb future U.S. operations in Cambodia may come Tuesday, but even its supporters expect to lose. The main hope of the proposal's backers evidently is to run a big, even if losing, vote for a plan passed two weeks ago by the Senate after nearly two months of debate.

No concrete plan for action has been set, but indications are at Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, say Thursday to send the re-try military sales bill—which includes the Cooper-Church amendment—to conference with the Senate.

If he does, House backers of the amendment say they plan to y and bind the House conference in advance to the Cooper-Church language, which cuts off U.S. spending for Cambodia. At that point a motion to table would thus kill the instructions could be expected. The test vote would follow.

No Instructions Morgan, who has made clear his opposition to Cooper-Church in its present form, said he wants to go to conference with the Senate without any instructions.

President Nixon, in a radio-television interview last week, indicated he hopes a modified version of the amendment could come out of the House-Senate conference. The President emphasized recognition of what specific

Conservatives Assail London 'Isle of Sin'

LONDON (AP) — A Laborite member of Parliament wants Britain's new Conservative government to do something about an island of sin in London's East End where he says teen-agers hold orgies and shoot up heroin. Arthur Lewis told the House of Commons Tuesday he had been Home Secretary Reginald Maudling information on the debauchery of girls and boys 14 to 16 years old. He said the kids were being introduced to hard drugs like heroin on the island and that a drugged, 14-year-old girl was raped by a crowd of youths. Police recently raided a party on the littered, weedy strip of marshland island and are bringing charges against three teenage girls to subject them to institutional care.

"Get 'em All" These young people are using the island as a strutting ground," Lewis declared. "There have been complaints of people taking and passing drugs and having sexual intercourse in public."

At the mile-long tract of wasteland in the industrial hackney district, where shrubs and bushes fight a rising tide of waste paper and beer bottles, a weatherbeaten Cockney night watchman said: "I get 'em all down here, mate, screaming and shouting in the middle of the night." "About the only time I get any peace is when I come down in the afternoons for a spot of fishing." "Some of the people here at night can't be any older than 15 or 16—and the things they get up to. Make your hair turn, it would."

Mrs. Rose Finesilver, 55, an East End social worker, said up to 150 youngsters attend drug parties on the island. "The real situation is far worse than has been reported," she added. Mrs. Finesilver said there was "no doubt that a 14-year-old girl called Susie was taken to the island in a drugged state and raped by a gang of youths. She talked of nude dancing and drugged drinks."
